For Antioch Officials baby, tractor, family top memories

by GLORIA DAVIS

All the officials in Antioch are hoping to have a very merry Christmas this year, but many of them have a special Christmas or very special gifts they have received in the past that they still hold dear.

Mayor Ray Toft's favorite Christmas present of all time came a few years ago from his daughter Cathy and her husband Wayne Soder.

"They told me to go outside and look on the lawn. There was one of the prettiest sights I've ever seen, an old fashioned sleigh covered with lights and labeled Ray and Joan Toft in gold leaf," said Toft.

See Toft and his wife pictured with the sleigh and wishing everyone a Merry Christmas in another part of this week's Antioch News-Reporter.

Toft added that the completely refurbished sleigh had reportedly come from the Vern Burdick family.

EARLY DEADLINE FOR NEW YEARS

Regular advertising and news copy deadlines have been advanced to 5 p.m. Monday, Dec. 28, due to New Years. Want ads can be placed until 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 29, by calling (312) 223-8161. Next week's edition will be on newsstands a day earlier than usual — Wednesday, Dec. 30. Home delivery customers will receive their paper Thursday, Dec. 31, a day earlier than usual. The newspaper office will be closed Friday, Jan. 1. We extend warm wishes for happy holidays and a safe and good New Years.

and Antioch Twp. Sup. Jim Fields reports that his favorite Christmas took place four years ago when "we took the entire family, four children, one son-in-law and two grandchildren, to spend Christmas in a resort in Galena. We all had a great time!"

It only took a few minutes for Antioch Police Chief Charles Miller to come up with his favorite Christmas, "It was the first year my wife and I were married when our oldest son, Ronald, came almost three weeks late, to be born on Christmas Eve and be the best Christmas present we ever got," he said. Miller had been on the Antioch police force a scant two years at the time.

Gary Allen, Antioch High School superintendent, said, "I'll always remember the Christmas of 1941 as both a happy and a sad one."

"I lived on a farm in southern Illinois. First of all, we had just gotten over the infamous Dec. 7, then on Dec. 11 our barn burned down. But things got better when I received a windup tractor for Christmas, something I'd always wanted," said Allen. He added that the tractor and "some candy" was all he got for Christmas but it was more than enough.

Antioch Village Clerk Marilyn was three or four years old living in Chicago.

"My grandmother took me to the window and pointed to the sky and told me that Santa and his reindeer were flying out there. I still think I really saw them and my imagination's been running rampant ever since," said Sterbenz.

Antioch Postmaster and unofficially the new president of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Stan Luta, reports that he still

"We moved from an apartment to our first house on Christmas Eve and that year, I got a toy collie puppy.

Antioch Twp. Hwy. Commissioner Mark Ring thinks that "the Christmas party my family just had this week was a memorable one. My father wasn't there (Blaine Ring, deceased former Antioch Twp. highway commissioner), neither was my brother Joe who died in 1971, but my mother, my 88-year-old grandmother from Beloit, my 12 brothers and sisters and my nieces were all there.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

Nurses honored for dedication

Several nurses working in Lake County were honored for their dedication and five or more years of continued service by the directors of Nursing in Long Term Care and Related Agencies Conference at a luncheon held on Dec. 9, at the Lambs Farm. The conference is sponsored by the Health Facilities Division of the Lake County Health Department.

Those honored at the Recognition Luncheon were the following Directors of Nursing: Jeanette Bolger, R.N., Town Hall Estates, Wauconda, nine years; Barbara Cochran, R.N., Waukegan Developmental Center, seven years; Rosemary Hancock, R.N., Westmoreland, Lake Forest, nine years; Sharon Roberts, R.N., Brentwood North, Riverwoods, nine years; and Daisy Villalon, R.N., North Shore Terrace, Waukegan, five years.

"We are recognizing these professionals at a time of great concern about the shortage of nurses. Nurses are exercising a great deal of creativity to develop new ways of meeting the needs of our nation's increasingly older population. The efforts of these individuals can be demonstrated through the quality of care offered in their respective facilities," said Barbara Haley, R.N. B.S.N., M.A., Director of the Health Facilities Division.

The conference also recognized Charlene Hendrickson, R.N., B.S.N., C., for 10 years of service with the Health Facilities Division, her involvement with long term care facilities, and the guidance she has provided to the Conference.

Carmel to hold test

Registration for the 1988 Freshmen class at Carmel High School will take place on Saturday, Jan. 9. All eighth graders who plan to attend Carmel next September must come to the school Jan. 9 to register and to take a series of ability and achievement tests. The test results, along with information received from the student's elementary school, will be used by Carmel to schedule the student for next year.

The testing will begin at Carmel at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday morning and will continue until about 12:30. No student can be admitted after 8:30, and no further testing date is planned for later in the year. If illness prevents any student from taking the placement test on Jan. 9, it is absolutely necessary that the school be called in order that a place be reserved for September — Carmel for Girls, 566-8440 or Carmel for Boys, 566-4080. Such students should make arrangements to take the high school placement tests with the public school students and have the results sent to Carmel.

Each student must bring a $10 testing fee. All students are also asked to bring a pen, and two no. 2 soft lead pencils.

Speeding arrest causes curfew, bond increase

by GLORIA DAVIS

Tim Palm, 24, Antioch, who is out on a $20,000 signature bond awaiting trial for allegedly causing the boat accident that killed Craig Campbell on Aug. 5, appeared in front of Lake County Judge William Block on Monday for violations of that bond.

According to Assistant States' Atty. Randy Stewart, Palm was arrested in Bristol, Wis. on Oct. 5, for driving at speeds of 92 miles per hour.

Stewart charged that Palm violated bond by going over a state line without permission and also by getting arrested just two months after he was charged with reckless homicide, cocaine possession, and the reckless operation of a boat.

Campbell died after his pontoon boat was struck by Palm's speed boat on Aug. 5 on Lake Marie.

Block raised the $20,000 signature bond by adding a $10,000 cash bond to it. Palm was also given a curfew between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m. and he is not allowed to drive a motor vehicle except to get to work and to court dates.

Palm lives where he works at his father's business, Bob's Marina on Lake Marie.

Palm's trial in connection with Campbell's death is set in front of Judge Block on Monday, Jan. 25. Stewart will prosecute for the states attorney's office.

Emmons pupils show spirit

The recent snowstorm couldn't dampen the holiday spirit at Emmons School in Antioch when it comes to helping others.

First, the SEDOL class collected food from the Emmons community. Students John Armstrong, Margaret Balicki, Charles Dobosiewicz, Rodney Gauthier, Jason Kingsland, Roberta Patterson, Carl Potts, Jeff Theis and David Garnett were kept busy requesting food donations for the Antioch Food Pantry.

Next, the eighth grade class demonstrated their holiday spirit by visiting the senior citizens at Oak Ridge Village in Antioch.

The students sang Christmas carols, visited with the residents and gave them home baked goods. Student coordinator of this project was Craig Gantar. Class officers are David Nolte, president; Craig Gantar, vice-president; Jenny Hawk, secretary and Ed Ruck, treasurer.

Another holiday activity to help those less fortunate was a clothing donation for local needy students coordinated by PTO Health and Welfare chairman Kathy Braun.

Finally, the Emmons staff made a collective money donation to the Antioch Food Pantry. At Emmons School the holiday season indeed has been a time to demonstrate concern for those less fortunate.

Week's ACHS athlete

Tim Sandrik is selected as 'Athlete of Week' for his two pins in dual meets and sixth place finish in prestigious Stagg Wrestling Tournament. Coach Ted Derousse is shown presenting commemorative plaque, left, and Dave Raupp, representing First National Bank is presenting check for $50 to Parent-Teacher Scholarship fund in Sandrik's name.

ACHS wrestling coach feels schedule takes toll

After last week's 34 to 26 win, Antioch Sequoias faced the Lake Forest Scouts Friday night with only the JV wrestlers able to come away with a win, 51 to 18. Freshmen and varsity both lost, 39 to 36 and 32 to 27, respectively.

Despite the losses, there were some good bouts. Bill Eves came away with a tie in a very close contest, and Dave Sheppard came back late in his match to pick up points and win, 8 to 4.

Brett DeRousse won by decision and Tim Sandrik and Brandon Parkhurst both pinned their opponents. Although Paul Neurater and Jeremy Johnson lost, Coach DeRousse felt they both wrestled very well.

DeRousse compared a meet with a war in which there are many battles. Lake Forest won some of the "crucial battles" by simply "outwrestling us".

He also felt that the schedule this year is taking its toll. There have been meets Thursday and Friday nights, with tournaments on Saturdays.

DeRousse said "the wrestlers are tired, they're just not mentally sharp". Coach Moxley agreed, stating his team has been "consistent and competitive", however, "they're wrestling more than they ever have. They're not getting enough practice time and the boys are exhausted."

Over Christmas break, the sophomores travel to Maine East on the 21st for a tournament, with varsity going to Glenbrook South on Dec. 22 and 23.

Antioch also hosts a JV tournament on Dec. 23. The first tournament of the new year has all levels on the road to meet Maine East, Wheeling and Prospect, on Jan. 2.

Christmas is almost here. In spite of all the rain, snow, and stinky caught up in them all. Christmas is about love and good will to our fellowmen - a state of mind that we should practice all-year-round.

Notes & News

weather, you have that last present purchased. You might even have them all wrapped if you are organized. As usual you spent more money than you planned.

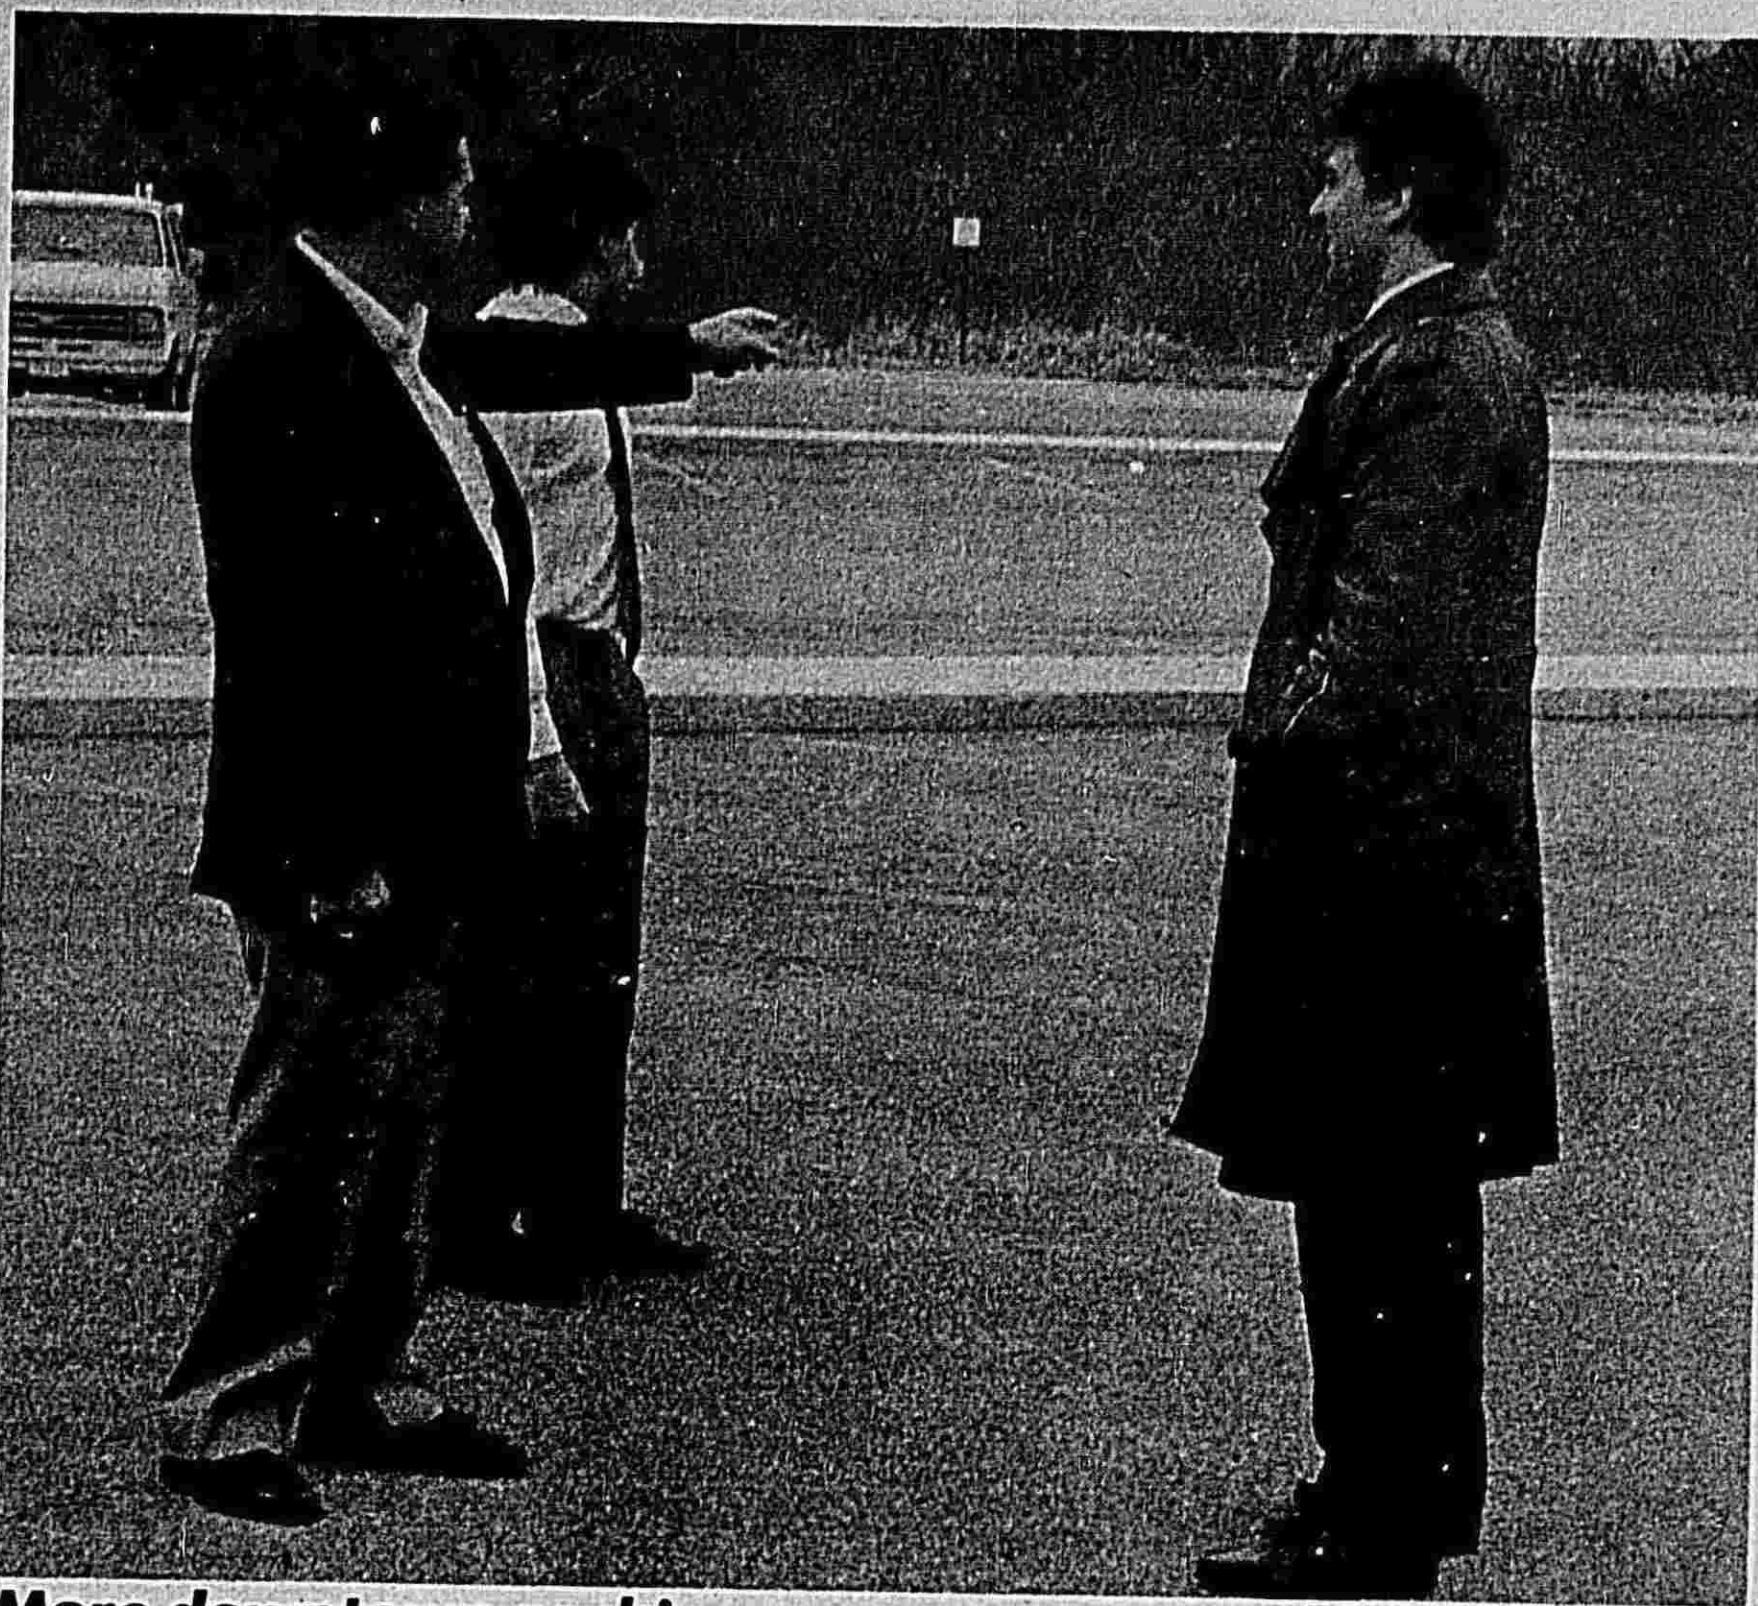

It's so hard, isn't it, to resist that extra present as you anticipate the look on your children's (or spouses') faces as they open piles of presents. Thank goodness for "plastic money!" What would we do without our credit cards? We'd have no bills to pay in January, February, March....

Now, before all the excitement begins, it's time to sit back and reflect upon what Christmas is all about. Christmas is more than exchanging gifts, decorations, parties, and food; although we get so

As God showed his love toward us, we should show love to those around us - from our families to those we come in contact with frequently or once-in-a-lifetime.

You never know; you may have entertained an angel unaware. Anyway, then when Christmas 1987 is history and everything is feeling a little anti-climatic, when new toys are getting broken and togetherness is getting a little thin, you'll at least react in a loving manner.

One way to beat the Christmas blues is to attend PM&L's special Family Holiday Show - O'Henry's "The Ransom of Red Chief", 2:30 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 26 and Sunday, Dec. 27. Call (312) 395-3055 for reservations. Don't miss it!

More downtown parking

After 30 years of trying to get a parking lot in back of stores on east side of Main St. there is finally one that 65 cars can park in. Bill Patterson of B.J.'s Fashions for Men donated property to the village that was in

Award Weston with Scouting's highest honor

David James Weston received the Eagle, Scouting's highest honor in an Eagle Court of Honor. Weston, a sophomore at Antioch Community High School joined Cub Scouts in 1981, advanced to Webelos in 1982, joined the Boy Scouts of America the same year, and joined Antioch's Troop 92 in 1983.

He has earned eight skill awards, 32 merit badges, received 14 special activity awards, and served in four different leadership positions.

Each Eagle candidate is required to plan and supervise a community service project that involves a minimum of 25 hours of the Scout's time. For his project Weston spent 42 hours planning, organizing and supervising the painting of 99 fire plugs in his home town of Lindenhurst.

For this work he was thanked by the Village of Lindenhurst and formally acknowledged at a recent village meeting.

The Eagle Court of Honor was held at Antioch's Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 525; Troops 92's sponsoring organization. The invocation was led by Father Lawrence Hanley, Master of ceremonies and Assistant Scoutmaster

Bill Goetzelman made the opening remarks and introduced the special guests.

Senior Patrol Leader Eric Anderson led the presentation of colors. Scoutmaster Bernie Dost presented the Lighting of the Trail to Eagle in which the steps of the Scout Oath and the Scout Law are explained and represented by the lighting of candles.

The guest speaker was Gail Crutcher of Lindenhurst who spoke about the accomplishments of the Eagle. After Scoutmaster Dost read The Challenge and Charge of an Eagle, Ed Lahey, Lakes Dist. chairman formally presented the award to Weston.

In turn, Weston presented pins to each of his parents Richard and Carol Ann Weston and then expressed thanks to all who had helped him achieve this honor. Following the Court of Honor the Troop 92 Women's Auxillary presented a sumptuous buffet dinner to all of the guests.

ACHS students, teachers in academic competition

On Dec. 2, Antioch High School's Academic Team participated in its first competition—the National Knowledge Master Open. Fourteen students competed in a grueling test of academic prowess that lasted over three hours. Teams were from 1,182 high schools from all 50 states, Canada and Seoul, South Korea.

Antioch's team scored 1,056 out of a possible 2,000 points while correctly answering 164 out of 200 questions. They tied for 686 out of the 1,182 schools and placed 33 out of 55 schools in Illinois. This was a very good showing for the first attempt considering these were all top students participating.

The contest was run on an Apple II computer, with the computer tallying the scores based on accuracy and speed. Each team competed at its own site and could enter only one group answer. For incorrect answers, a second chance was allowed.

The students participating were: Diane Veltman, Suzanne DeBruhl, John Ciko, Tom Mueller, Amy Kirschenheiter, Jon Medema, Chris Kapsalis, Mike Malson, Andy Larkin, Traci Atkinson, Michelle Veltman, Rob Hueckstaedt, Mark Ellerbrook and Jerry Ruscko.

A "teachers" team took the same test on Dec. 8. The contest was set up the same as for the students. Sixteen teachers participated, some only for part of the two hours it took.

The team answered 188 questions correctly for a score of 1,531. A very good showing since they were in first place out of 15 adult teams as of Dec. 9.

Year-end review: Part I

There were more little stories in 1987 than big stories, but it was the big stories that made headlines and shaped our lives. In looking back on significant happenings of the past 12 months, these are the events that we talked about and, in some cases, will be concerns in the coming year. We'll complete our review next week of news impacting on our locality.

POLITICS: U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, because he is the junior senator from Illinois, brings the 1988 chase for the Oval Office close to home... Sheriff Robert "Mickey" Babcox's serious illness sparks wonderment about the future of Lake County Republican leadership... the death of Mayor Harold Washington of Chicago has a marked effect on many Lake Countians... State's Atty. Fred Foreman takes over as president of national prosecutor's organization...

EDUCATION: Dr. Daniel LaVista becomes the president of College of Lake County... Carmel begins year-long process to effect merger of boys' and girls' high school July 1, 1988... State legislators back away from educational funding, forcing local schools to tighten belts... Rebuilt Warren High School opens after two years of disruptions caused by fire... Sybil Yastrow seated as regional superintendent of Lake County schools...

LIFESTYLES: Lavish homes become commonplace in south Lake County residential construction and Wadsworth horse country... Enforcement of new and stiffer drunk driving laws puts crimp in tavern business and makes "meet" market singles bars passe for young people... Fitness centers become the "in" places for Lakeland residents of all ages...

Next week: business and the economy, county government and local government.

Clear and present danger

It is inevitable that politicians will squabble from time to time. When they do, it is the taxpayers who foot the bill. It is frustrating, but nonetheless inevitable.

When a political squabble reaches the point that it endangers peoples lives and health, though, it has gotten out of hand. That is what is happening in Lake Villa Twp. right now.

Citizens who live on Glade Ave. in unincorporated Lake Villa Twp. woke up after the big snowstorm to find themselves completely snowed in. No help was coming from Lake Villa Twp. Highway Commissioner James Semmerling either. Just a few days earlier, he sent residents a letter telling them he could do no work such as paving, maintenance or snow plowing because a court order barred him from it.

There is a court order, but Semmerling is the only person who believes it bars plowing of the road.

Early this year, Semmerling wanted to condemn Glade Ave. to build a connecting road between Stratton Subdivision and Fox Lake Hills. Residents on Glade Ave. did not care for this plan and sought assistance to stop it. Eventually, they got help from Lake County Building and Zoning Dir.

Robert Streicher, who obtained the court order barring Semmerling from doing any work that would change the road.

At the same time, a squabble was brewing. Streicher and Lake Villa Twp. Sup. Dorothy Thompson were on one side with Semmerling on the other.

When the snow flew, Semmerling saw the opportunity to punish his two sets of enemies at the same time. By not plowing Glade, he punished those residents who had defied him and got a little one-upsmanship on Streicher and Thompson at the same time.

We're not sure whether it was a good idea or not to use Glade Ave. to connect the two subdivisions. But we are sure that it was a terrible, irresponsible idea to leave the street impassible after the decade's biggest snowstorm.

If a resident on Glade had had a heart attack or been seriously injured, they could have died, because nothing, including emergency vehicles, could get through that street. Had that happened, Semmerling would have something much more serious than political gamesmanship to worry about. We hope he will start worrying about it now.

The Washington legacy

The untimely death of Mayor Harold Washington of Chicago short-circuited an opportunity for Lake County to end its long-standing status as a garbage importer.

Mayor Washington's death Nov. 25 came just as his administration was preparing ordinances to launch a five-year civil works project that would mean major changes in how Chicago disposes of its garbage. The Washington plan involved increased use of incinerators instead of landfills and mandatory recycling for some items.

The Washington administration was responding to a state environmental study showing that Chicago and the collar counties have less than five years of landfill capacity.

In Lake County, solid waste problems are complicated by the fact that we are the burial site for part of Chicago's trash. If the late mayor's successor doesn't carry out incineration and recycling plans, there is no question Lake County will be affected adversely.

It was interesting that Mayor Washington wanted to collect bottles, cans and newspapers for recycling to cut the $100 million Chicago spends annually for trash disposal. Washington administration officials also were trying to decide how many garbage-burning incinerators would be needed.

By taking a leadership role in helping solve one of society's most pressing problems, Mayor Washington was destined to leave a mark on history that would surpass any other acclaim he was destined to receive. A fitting tribute would be to follow his lead.

Bush vs. Simon picked in poll of CLC students

by BILL SCHROEDER

In a pre-Christmas presidential preference poll, students at the College of Lake County very well might have forecast the eventual contenders for the Oval Office in the 1988 general election.

Vice President George Bush and U.S. Sen. Paul Simon emerged as runaway winners in polling conducted by the Chronicle, the student newspaper.

Simon collected 61 percent of the Democratic vote, well ahead of second place Jesse Jackson, who received 13 percent. On the Republican side, Bush topped U.S. Sen. Robert Dole by nearly a four-to-one margin.

Look for a lot of money to go down on the Simon-Bush parlay. The CLC students know politics.

If a Bush vs. Simon match materializes, it's highly likely that the CLC students correctly forecast the overriding theme of the '88 balloting. It'll be the "Nerd" vs. the "Wimp."

Simon's wholesome image was highlighted in the student poll, but this facet of the Illinois senator could work against him. "People see him as very 'nerdy,'" one student remarked when asked to comment. Vice President Bush couldn't shake his "Willy the Wimp" image.

Even if you don't want to bet the farm on the CLC prediction, score points for the astute student observations. When all is said and done next summer at the nominating conventions, remember what the CLC poll predicted.

PENCILS ON WAY--Thanks to readers who contributed to our second Pencils for People program to aid impoverished children in Mexico. Your contributions are on the way and will be delivered by Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gartin. The Spanish class at Antioch

High School came through with two good-sized boxes of writing materials. Next year let's make the project bigger and better. This column vows to get started earlier.

GRUMBLING--Some of the same Republicans who were ecstatic when Circuit Court Clerk Sally Coffelt changed parties a few years ago are now grumbling that Coffelt is less than enthusiastic about GOP affairs. The reported knock on Coffelt, elected in 1980 as a Democrat and reelected in 1984 as a Republican, is that she's lackluster and indifferent on the campaign trail. GOP nabobs are frustrated by the fact that Coffelt is a shoo-in for a third term.

SPECIAL PATIENT--When the famed Mayo Clinic of Rochester, Minn., went scouting for its four millionth new patient, it turned out to be a Lake County resident, Violet E. Ross, 52, of Highland Park. She was given a basket of Minnesota items and a Mayo charm as a memento. Number one was recorded in 1907.

IN TOUCH--The Village of Long Grove has a special way of keeping in touch with its citizens--besides sending out tax bills. At Christmas time, the historic village now noted for its high tourism profile, sends out a custom-designed calendar containing information about the community and meeting dates of local organizations. Cost of the printing and mailing is defrayed by advertisements purchased in the calendar by local merchants. The calendar is the brainchild of Village Administrator Cal Doughty.

May the joy of Christ's birth brighten your spirits and lead you to everlasting peace.

Suburbs will get new area code

Illinois Bell announced that a second area code will be implemented for the Chicago metropolitan area on Nov. 11, 1989.

The new 708 code will serve the suburbs, while the present 312 area code will continue to serve the city of Chicago. Customers in both area codes will keep the seven-digit telephone number they now have.

"Adding a second area code was inevitable," said James Eibel, Illinois

Bell's vice president of operations. "We're making the change because we're running out of seven-digit local phone numbers available for customers."

"The increased demand for service is caused by the economic vitality and growth of the metropolitan area," he added.

Eibel noted that while the new area code will change the way people dial calls, the charges for the calls won't change.

Adding the 708 area code to the Chicago area will provide Illinois Bell with an additional seven million possible phone numbers. Presently there are only 51 prefixes—the first three digits of a phone number—left from a pool of 792 possible combinations in the 312 area.

In 1981, Illinois Bell introduced seven new prefixes. The number doubled in 1983 when 14 more were introduced.

"There are 51 prefixes left," Eibel said. "These will be nearly exhausted in two years, even though we are carefully conserving the supply of unassigned numbers."

All calls between the 312 and 708 areas will continue to be charged in message units at the same rate that existed before the new code was added. The new boundary between the 708 and 312 area codes will follow the Chicago city limits.

Christmas trees are now a billion-dollar business

by GARY S. MEYERS

If you think Christmas is a time to put business aside in favor of relaxation with family and friends, you probably don't grow Christmas trees for a living.

While you are sipping your eggnog by the fire this year, the Christmas tree business will take in more than a billion dollars for natural and artificial greenery.

"Few people realize that the sale of natural Christmas trees alone will bring in $1.1 billion this year," said Dave Baumann, associate executive director of the National Christmas Tree Assn. in Milwaukee.

A study at Pennsylvania State University indicated that 39 percent of Americans who celebrate Christmas opt for a natural tree and 35 percent buy the artificial version. The remaining 26 percent have no tree at all.

Although the stock market fell like a 50-foot Scotch Pine in October, professional tree growers don't expect the crash to hurt sales. They expect to sell approximately 33.3 million trees, or 2 percent more than last holiday season. Artificial tree retailers also say that sales are brisk.

"Since Christmas trees are a seasonal product, it can sometimes be pretty difficult to say what will happen in the marketplace. But so far, it seems to be a good year," said Fred Strathmeyer, president of the National Christmas Tree Assn.

There was a time when families trekked into the woods to chop down their own yuletide arbors, but now most trees are grown professionally. More than 90 percent are grown on 15,000 plantations scattered across one million acres of land in the United States and Canada.

Each year, tree growers employ approximately 90,000 temporary workers to harvest and sell the trees and 10,000 full-timers.

"Christmas tree farming is a year-round and time-intensive business," said Baumann. "Getting a tree from seedling to market takes five to 13 years."

The price of real trees has averaged between $3 and $6 per foot this year. But in larger cities like Dallas or New York, natural tree lovers must sometimes pay up to $70 for a six-foot pine.

While Christmas trees seem expensive today, Baumann points out that the price of trees has lagged the Consumer Price Index by about 89 percent since 1967.

For loved ones far from home or for city dwellers, mail-order natural Christmas trees have become popular in the last few years. Ordered directly through a grower or a mail-order house such as L.L. Bean, the trees are shipped within a week of harvesting via United Parcel Service.

"A lot of businesses are sending out trees to their clients and contacts in lieu of candy and liquor now," said Baumann.

For those with less to spend, a version of the good ol' Charlie Brown tree, usually only two feet tall and half-dead, is an inexpensive option. Most retailers have at least a few stragglers left on the lot.

Many growers operate sideline choose-and-cut businesses for local customers and for those who want to keep the family tradition alive.

In the early 1950s, artificial trees became the rage during a shortage of real trees. Most were made of glittery aluminum and were very inexpensive. Today, the majority of artificial trees are made of plastic and are manufactured in Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong. With the decline of the dollar, most high-quality, real-looking artificial trees cost between $125 and $400.

But inexpensive artificial trees costing as little as $5 for a two-footer can still be found.

Tree growers offer the following tips for buying a real Christmas tree:

-Decide on the kind of tree you are going to buy and where you are going to put it before you go shopping. The size and type will determine the price. The most popular varieties include Scotch Pine, Virginia Pine, Douglas Fir, Norway Spruce and Balsam Fir.

-Make sure the tree is fresh. Grab the trunk and shake it on the ground. Dry green needles should not fall off, but the loss of brown needles is normal. The needles should bend slightly without breaking or falling off in your hand.

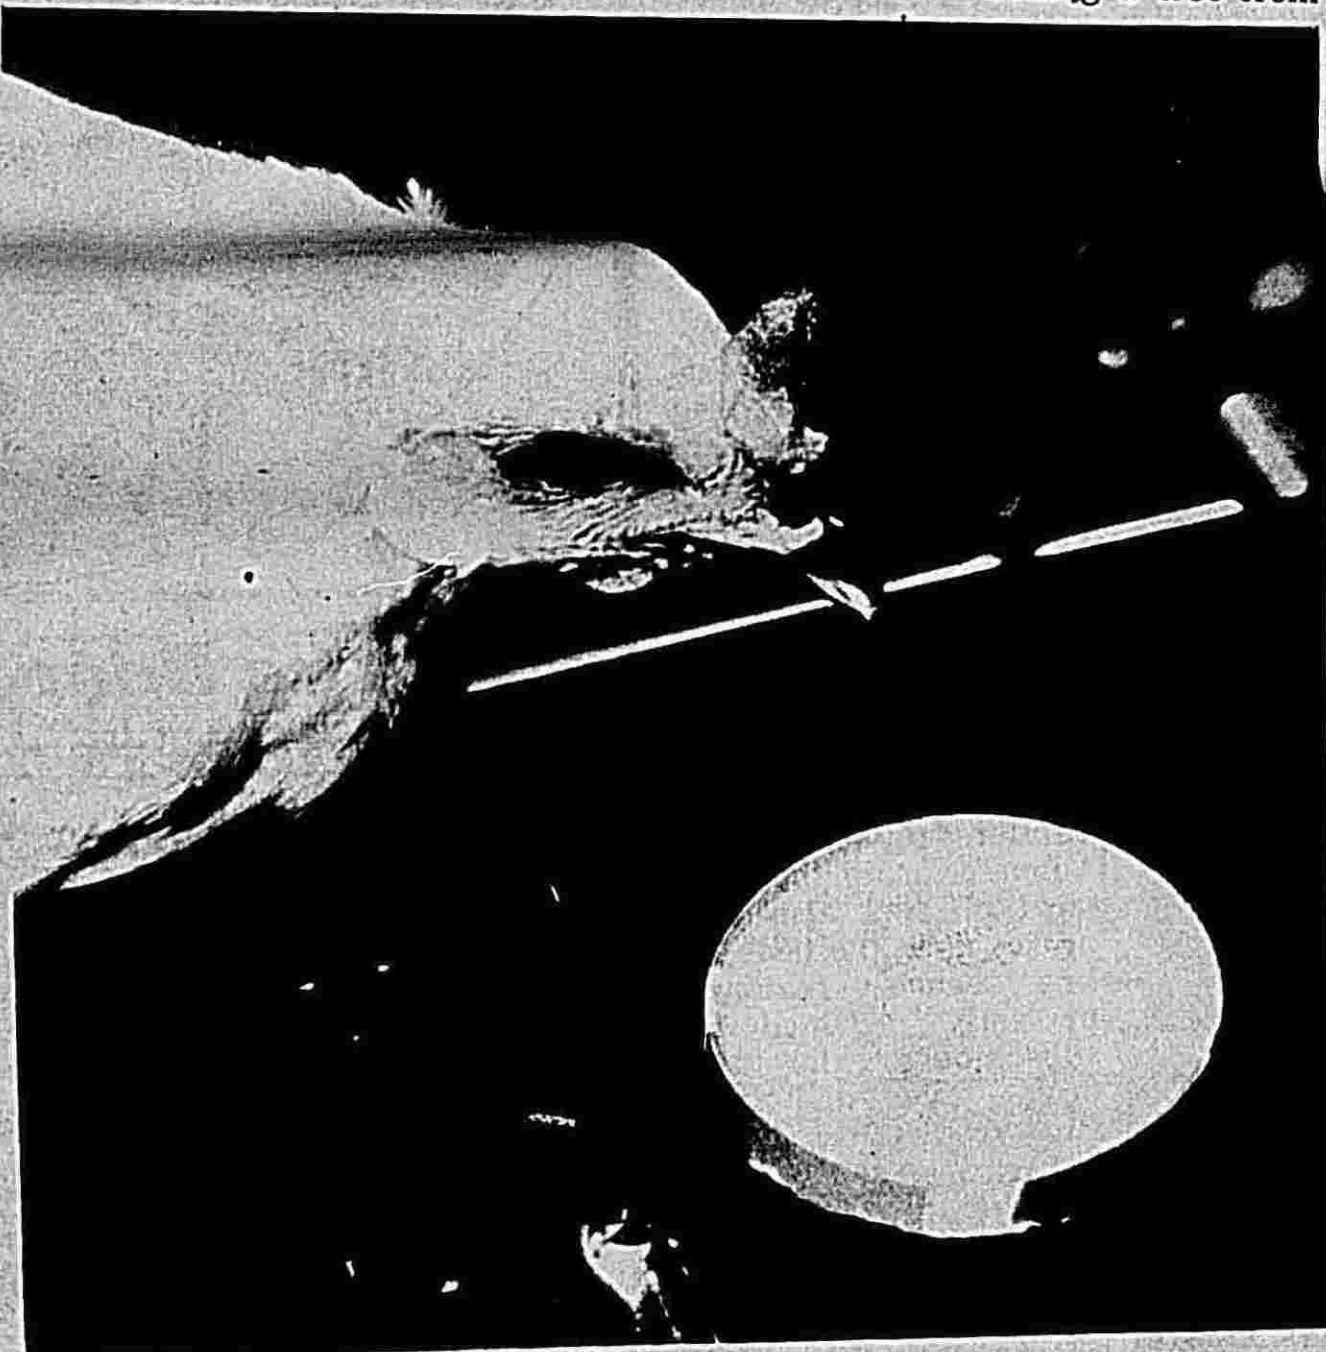

-Trees are like fresh-cut flowers. As soon as you get home, cut off at least one inch from the bottom of the trunk before placing the tree in the stand. This allows the tree to take up water.

-The stand should hold at least two pints of water and the tree should be watered more than once, because it may soak up a gallon of water in the first 24 hours. Tap water is the best. Never let the water drop below the trunk or a new cut will be necessary.

-Keep the tree away from heat sources. Don't decorate it with lighted candles. Check old electric lights for frayed wires.

-After Christmas, the tree can be placed outside as a bird shelter and feeder or used as mulch for the garden next spring.

"A real Christmas tree is like a bouquet of roses. It needs to be treated with care," said Strathmeyer. "Unfortunately, two-thirds of natural Christmas tree buyers don't take care of their trees properly."

Because only tiny ink drops touch the surface, Domino Ink Jet Printers can even print on an egg yolk, as demonstrated here at a trade show. Domino Amjet, Inc. has its headquarters in Gurnee.

$1.1 million expansion of Domino Amjet creates jobs

Soon after moving into their new 6,500 square foot ink plant on Lee Ave. in August of 1984, Domino Amjet, Inc. realized that market growth for their jet inks would soon require even more production space. Ground breaking for the newly opened 15,000 square foot addition began last April, and the original staff of six will expand to 32 by Jan. 1.

With the $1.1 million expansion, the Gurnee facility provides employment for research, development, and production personnel from Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin.

Domino Amjet is the world leader in the manufacture of Ink Jet printers and inks for a broad range of applications in packaging and the graphic arts. Ink jet printers "spray" microscopic, electrically charged ink drops to form print characters on virtually any surface. Chances are, the date codes on the bottom of the beverage cans in your refrigerator were placed there at 2,500 per minute by Domino ink jet printers, using Domino inks. Many of the personalized catalogs and mail pieces you receive are addressed by similar Domino printers.

Bell's alarm technology improves security service

A new Illinois Bell service allows alarm and security companies to simultaneously monitor their customers' home and business burglar and fire alarms, temperatures and freezers—even sump pumps.

In all, the service, known as derived local channel, enables alarm and security services firms to monitor eight different activities within their customers' homes and businesses—all over an ordinary telephone line.

By working over the telephone line, the derived local channel service eliminates the need for installation of a second telephone line for alarm and security purposes. For example, a home or business owner can talk over the telephone line while, over the same line, an alarm company's surveillance system silently monitors burglar and fire alarms or other security services.

The service is provided from Illinois Bells' local switching centers, and has been established at centers in Naperville, Downers Grove, Geneva and Aurora.

Upon request for derived local channel service from a state-licensed company, Illinois Bell will install the equipment that provides the service in a switching center, Illinois Bell Product Manager Michael Egan said.

"We are delighted with the technology and view it as a major marketing benefit for years to come," said Robert Bonifas, a 20-year veteran in the alarm industry and national president of the National Burglar and Fire Alarm Assn. Bell recently installed the derived local channel service for Bonifas' firm, Alarm Detection Systems of Illinois, Inc., of Aurora.

"We have commitments to convert about 500 existing customer accounts to derived local channel service, and we are completing 20 to 30 conversions weekly," Bonifas said. "Over the next year and a half, we expect to convert more than 2,000 accounts to the service. Additionally, all of our new customers will be offered the service."

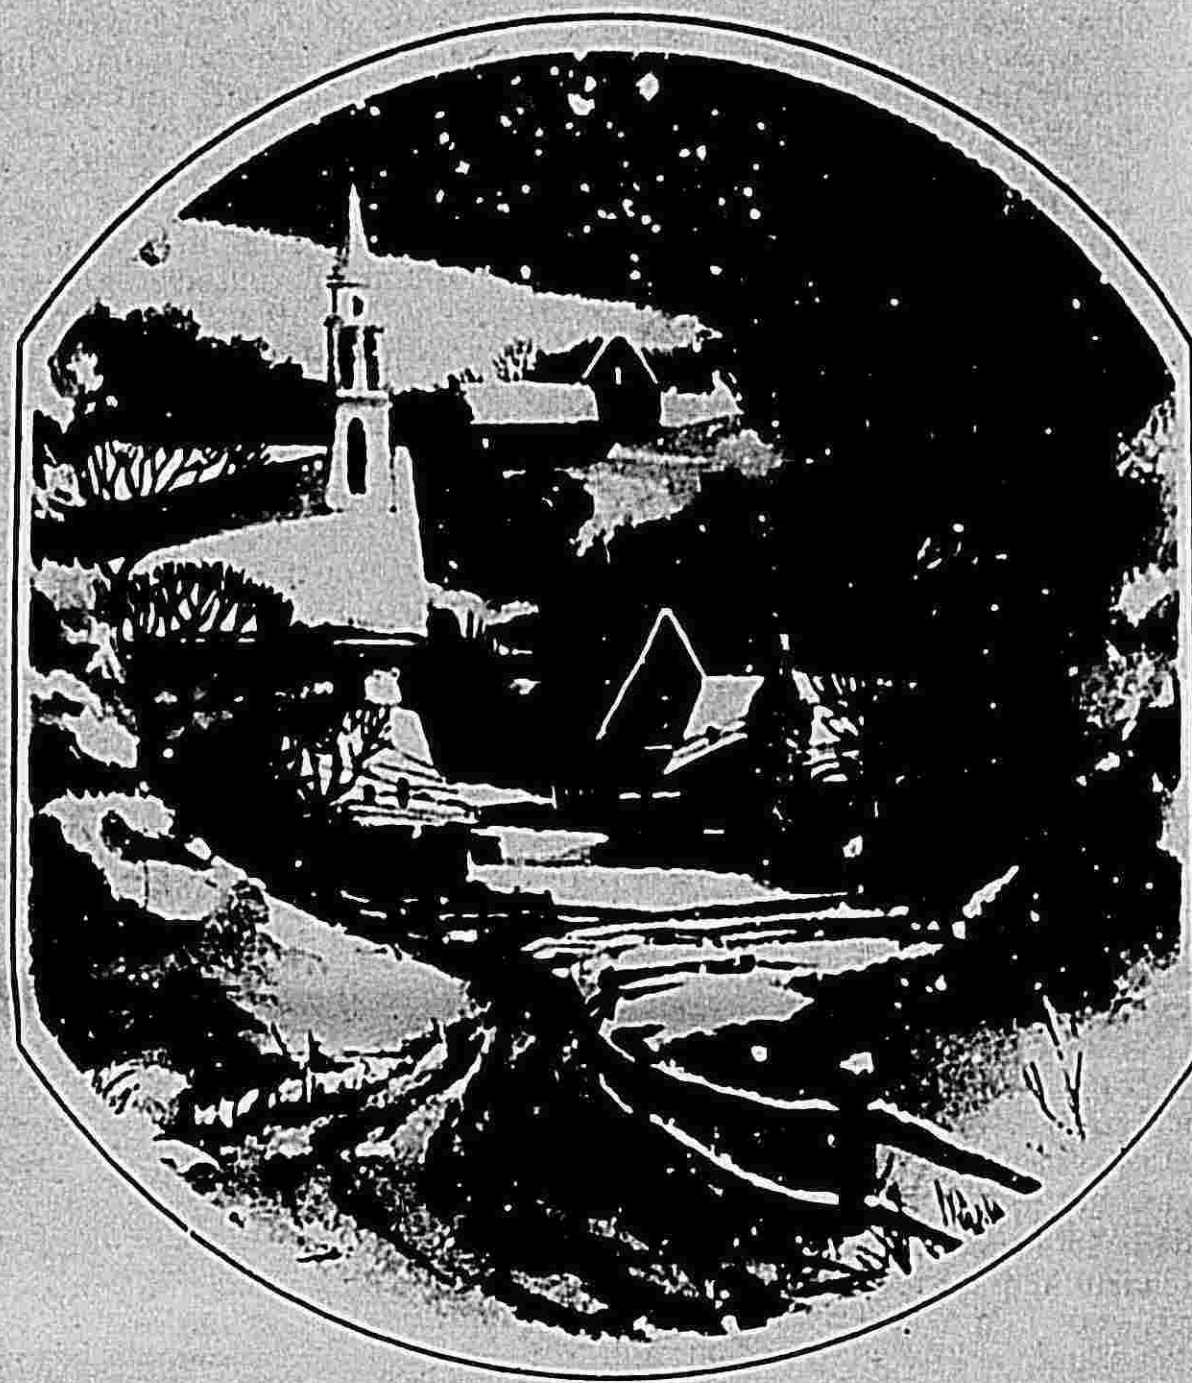

Bonifas said derived local channel also improves upon the level of line security features presently provided to subscribers who use private lines, and at a lower cost.

"With derived local channel, if a telephone line is cut, a signal is sent to the alarm company's office," he said.

For more information on derived local channel service, call Illinois Bell's Mike Egan at (312) 727-3945.

Work continues on Zion's new North Point Marina

At a meeting of the Zion-Winthrop Harbor-Beach Park Chamber of Commerce, Bill Jansen, project manager for the North Point Marina reported that work has continued on all phases of the basin and breakwater.

Work is continuing on the north and south breakwater with about 35 percent completed. Dredging of the main basin continues with beach disposal at the south end about 35 to 40 percent complete.

For the marina and landside development, bid opening for the general work was scheduled for Dec. 15. Bid opening for electrical and plumbing will be set for spring, with construction work to begin next spring. As far as building development, work is continuing on the design of the harbor administration building and the restrooms and fish cleaning station at an approximate cost of $1.5 million.

The private development aspect show that the award of the boat sales and service center should be soon. Next spring, the restaurant package will be out for bids. There has been some motion on the yacht club side with seven slip owners forming a steering committee to try to develop some ideas and possible development of the yacht club on their own. The state is willing to discuss this option with them.

Jansen also reported that the Chicago Boat Show will be Feb. 3-7, and the Illinois Dept. of Conservation will have a booth there.

Forty-seven charter boats have signed up for slips with a waiting list for the 30' and 35' slips. There are still a few 40' and 45' slips available.

Over 340 slips have been rented with about four to five being leased each week.

"The leases are going along real good. We'll have a pretty full group by spring 1989," Jansen said. "We continue to get requests from not only Lake County, but all over the midwest and across the county." Jansen will be appearing on U.S. Cable on Jan. 8 at 7:30 p.m.

Lake Point to break ground

The Hoffman Group has announced plans for Lake Point, a community of approximately 180 town houses and flats to be developed on the shores of Bang's Lake in Wauconda.

Located on 24 acres, construction is scheduled to begin in the spring with deliveries set for fall. Prices will range from approximately $85,000 to $135,000.

Designed by Oakbrook Terrace-based Balsamo/Olson Group, the homes will feature a rustic nautical design resembling an east coast fishing village.

"Lakefront sites are virtually impossible to find, plus Lake Point offers rolling landscape with mature oak trees," said Norman Hassinger.

Banks' advertised interest rates may be misleading

by GARY S. MEYERS

In the fight for consumer's savings dollars, a few financial institutions may not be playing fair, and their customers may not be getting the interest rates on certificates of deposit that they thought were advised.

One of the institutions that we feel is using an interest-rate calculation that may mislead its customers is Comerica Bank, one of Detroit's largest banks, which has savings and lending divisions in California, Colorado, Texas, Florida, New York, Ohio, Indiana and Washington, D.C.

A supervisory letter issued to financial institutions by the Federal Reserve Board on May 12, 1982, says "The board will regard any advertisement for a time deposit that states an annual rate of simple interest in excess of the average effective annual yield as inaccurate, misleading and misrepresentative of its deposit contracts."

But as recently as Dec. 3, 1987, Detroit's Comerica offered a 1-year Money Manager certificate with an interest rate of 6.85, although its annual yield was lower—6.74 percent, according to a memo from the office of Caroline Agostinelli, a Comerica product management officer.

Its 2-year Money Manager certificate had an interest rate of 7.80 percent, but a yield of 7.39 percent. For several other certificates, the rates and yields were identical, the memo indicated.

Comerica's interest rate calculation practices were first disclosed by The Meyers Report on Sept. 19, 1986. After our report, we and WBBM-Radio of Chicago filed a complaint with the Federal Reserve Board, the regulatory authority that oversees such matters. We have since called the Fed, and have not received a response.

But because of our efforts, Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., chairman of the House Banking Committee, wrote a formal complaint on Nov. 24, 1987, and directed it to Fed Chairman Alan Greenspan.

In his complaint, Annunzio said, "It has come to my attention that Comerica Bank of Detroit, Mich., may be violating (federal banking) Regulation Q by advertising time deposits of more than one year where no compounding occurs. The stated yield on these accounts is less than the simple rate of interest."

In September 1986, Comerica Bank was quoting an interest rate on an Individual Retirement Account Cd that appeared to be almost half a percentage point higher than those of most of the bank's competitors.

The Meyers Report received the information on Comerica's rates directly from Comerica's staff and from its public interest-rate telephone line. The rates of other Detroit financial institutions were part of an on-going survey The Meyers Report conducts for the Detroit Free Press.

At the time, Comerica was touting an 18-to-24-month fixed-rate IRA CD at 6.35 percent—although the CD carried an annual yield on only 6.18 percent. The 6.18 percent yield was competitive with other Detroit institutions, but Comerica's rate appeared distinctly higher.

The bank explained in 1986 that the 6.35 percent rate reflected earnings over the entire period of the investment, not over the space of a year—what they called simple interest—to be paid only at maturity.

Agostinelli, the product management officer, explained that the interest rate of 6.35 percent applied to a term of 658 days—or 1.8027 years.

But "federal banking regulation prohibits yields to be calculated from cycles in excess of one year," said Alan Donbrow, national bank examiner and the interest-rate expert for the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency, a part of the U.S. Treasury, which also oversees banks.

In an interview with The Meyers Report, Richard Haberd, Comerica's director of product management, asserted that the bank was in compliance with federal banking regulations.

Even so, Donbrow said the supervisory letter made the rules "quite clear." Upon hearing the prerecorded Comerica telephone interest rate information line, Donbrow said, "You cannot advertise interest rates that are higher than the average annual yield. Any institution that does is in violation of federal regulations."

The more accurate rate for Comerica Bank's IRA CD was reflected in the quoted yield of 6.18 percent, which Agostinelli said assumed annual compounding.

Of the Detroit-area banks surveyed, only Comerica Bank presented its rates on such a basis. All of the other banks showed yields that were equal to or higher than their rates.

Yield is a formula tied to the rate and to when the interest is credited to the account. As the frequency of a compounding increases (annual, semi-annual, quarterly, monthly, weekly, daily) the yield increases. In no case can the yield fall below the interest rate.

When bankers advertise, truth is critical. Anything that causes the public to question the integrity of our banking system risks the banking system.

Bond supervision exceeds capacity

Chief Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit Fred A. Geiger announced that the Supervised Pretrial Bond Program has reached and exceeded capacity.

Court Services Director George Gallagher informed Geiger that the courts have placed a total of 54 persons on supervised bond release which exceeds the program's capacity by nine persons.

Geiger explained that in addition to supervising pretrial bond releases, probation officers assigned to the program also have to conduct bond investigations for the Circuit Court in determining the conditions of bond. So far this year, pretrial officers have conducted and filed 1,685 investigations on felony defendants and have supervised 421 persons charged with crimes.

The program was begun in the fall of 1984 to help stem the tide of jail overcrowding and has grown ever since. The program also used electronic monitoring devices on some of the individuals placed on bond supervision in addition to regular home visits by probation officers.

The program allows for defendants who would normally be incarcerated awaiting trial to be released into the community under strict supervision while awaiting disposition of their charges.

The successful program has aided in reducing the burgeoning jail population and is economically more preferable while maintaining protection of the public.

Geiger has directed Gallagher to formulate new proposals to meet the needs of the court in regard to pretrial release and to present them to the circuit judges as soon as possible.

On stage

The PM&L Theatre in Antioch will be presenting its annual children's holiday production when the well loved tale of kidnappers whose victim straightens them out, O'Henry's "The Ransom of Red Chief" will be playing at the theater on Main St., just one block off Broadway (Antioch's Broadway that is). The show will be on stage on Saturday, Dec. 26 and Sunday, Dec. 27.

The production company of the Tudor Theatre in Glencoe is holding auditions for "Once Upon a Mattress," at the Women's Library Club in Glencoe on Sunday, Jan. 3, from noon to 3 p.m.; on Tuesday, Jan. 5, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. with callbacks on Thursday, Jan. 7 at 7 p.m.

The Kinetic Theatre Co. in Skokie, in its third year at Centre East, is in rehearsal for Frank Gilroy's powerful play "Who'll Save the Plowboy?" The show is slated to go on on Feb. 5th.

Time's awasting! Don't miss one of the last few holiday theatrical offerings. "Nutcracker" now playing at the Aeri Crown Theatre in Chicago.

Be there!

It will be Mardi Gras time in Lake County on Jan. 30 when the David Adler Cultural Center in Libertyville will hold its fourth annual Mardi Gras celebration at the Country Squire Restaurant in Grayslake. Larry Dam of Ingleside and Joan Huerth of Lake Geneva will take part in the evenings' festivities serving as the event's king and queen. Richard Nichols, an exciting young artist from Glendale Heights, will demonstrate his watercolor technique.

For soccer lovers and also food lovers, Arnie's in Newberry Plaza, Chicago, kicks off the soccer season for Chicago Sting ticket holders.

When someone presents a Sting ticket stub (one per table) dinner is free.

Though many people prefer either spending New Year's eve quietly at home with friends and/or relatives, others paint the town by attending a house party.

Still others like to do it up right and make it the extravaganza of the year by doing their dressiest outfit and going to a fine restaurant or some grand hotel for New Year's AND (overnight plus brunch).

Closer to Chicago, the chain hotels are charging up to $400 per couple for the partying overnighiter. It can be done for less by taking advantage of packages offered by less expensive inns. This elongated way of saying goodby to the old and starting the new year right is becoming increasingly popular because of the lack of the risk of drinking drivers, themselves or others.

For families that want to spend the entire weekend outdoors between partytime, places like the Abbey and Interlaken in Lake Geneva are primary booked up but word is that the Americana still has some openings.

The Gurnee Holiday Inn is offering a party package that includes photograph remembrances of the evening, all you can drink, dinner and dancing to live music, along with hats, horns, etc. for $129 per couple.

The Country Squire in Grayslake has a similar offer with a live band in the new banquet facilities and a deejay in the Sears Mansion for $45 per person.

California, here Susan Genc comes

For Suzanne Genc, Christmas came earlier than usual.

The gift Genc had dreamed about arrived in an envelope on Nov. 19. It was a letter informing the College of Lake County student that she had been accepted to the prestigious University of Southern California of Cinema-Television.

"All I read were three words—'approved your application'—and my parents and I started crying," said Genc.

Genc is one of just 25 students accepted by the School of Cinema-Television for the spring semester. But she is probably the only film student who had two previous applications turned down before being accepted on the third try.

For Genc, who carries a 3.9 G.P.A. at CLC, getting into the selective school was a study in determination, perseverance and patience.

While a student at Carmel High School, Genc attended a summer honors program in radio, television and film at Indiana State University in 1985 and made her first film called "Faith."

"I knew when I made that first film that I loved this field," Genc recalled. She took another film production course the following summer and worked for an independent filmmaker in Wheeling. During her senior year, she applied to USC. She was accepted by the university, but not by the film school.

"My parents were concerned about the expense of going to USC," said Genc. "They suggested I start at CLC and try again later." Genc planned her first year at CLC with single-minded purpose, checking all her courses and credits with USC to make sure they would transfer. Her parents are Richard and Janet Genc of McHenry.

In January, Genc applied again, hoping to start USC as a sophomore in the fall. The film school sent another rejection letter, and she began to consider other schools.

Disappointed but undaunted, Genc visited USC in August and heard a film student talk about what it takes to get into the competitive program. She found that she had not given enough emphasis to certain parts of her application, and that juniors were given priority in the selection process. Armed with these helpful hints, Genc decided to give it one more try.

"I was really encouraged after that visit," Genc said. "I felt I had a better shot this time than in the past."

After much soul-searching and rewriting, Genc sent off her new and improved materials, this time applying as a junior for the semester starting in January 1988.

"I felt really good about it," she recalled. "I figured if they didn't accept me after this, I wasn't meant to go."

Three weeks before the notification date, USC called and said she was a couple hours short of being a junior because some equivalency tests had not transferred. Genc was devastated—she had been told the tests would transfer. Even the USC catalog said the school would accept them.

"I saw my dream caving in," she said. But Genc refused to give up. With the film school's decision day drawing near, she made a barrage of phone calls to counselors and admissions staff, trying to explain what had happened and to find out where she stood with her credits. Finally, she put her plea in writing to the dean of the film school.

"I asked to be accepted or rejected on the basis of my potential, not on some confusion in policy," Genc noted. Then she had to wait.

The wait was well worth it, because the third time was the charm. Genc will leave for Los Angeles in early January and begin work on her bachelor of arts degree in film production as a junior. And, she credits CLC for helping her attain her dream.

"Going to CLC was the best thing for me," Genc said. "I was able to save money and reapply as a junior, so I can concentrate on film classes at USC. It also gave me more confidence in myself and time to think about whether film was really the field I wanted to go into."

She also cited the encouragement and help she got from CLC counselors and faculty during her application ordeal.

Even with the glitter of Los Angeles ahead of her, Genc said it will be hard to leave her CLC friends and activities behind. She is president of Newman Club, a faith centered community service/social group and a member of the honorary Phi Theta Kappa. Nonetheless, she is excited about throwing herself into making films.

"Eventually, I'd like to go into directing, not with a studio, but as an independent," Genc said. "I'm especially drawn to documentaries because of my concern with social issues. I want to use film to help make people aware of social issues."

If she pursues this dream with the tenacity she had in getting to USC, she will undoubtedly succeed.

Rogers will be starring in benefit

Gamble Rogers, Twentieth Century Troubadour—by way of a thousand storytellers and singers, will present a comic vignette combined with ace guitar-picking at the Eighth Annual Benefit Concert for Special Olympics at the Woodstock Opera House on Feb. 27 at 8 p.m.

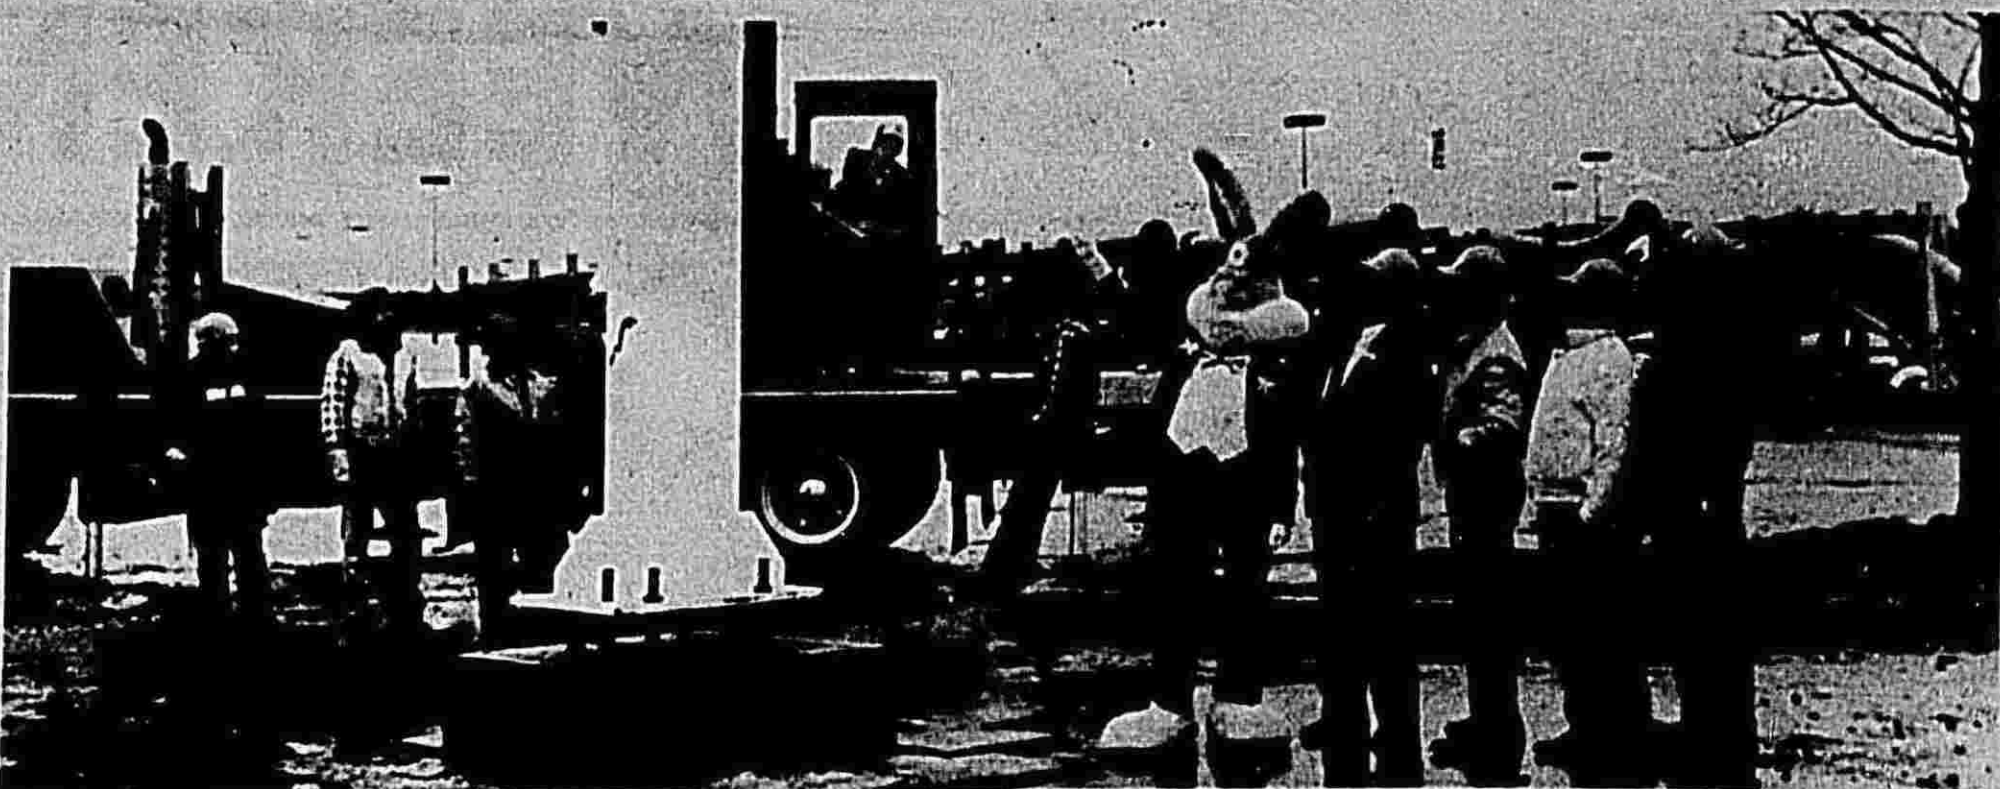

For Rogers, entertaining is life, and he is fully dedicated to living. Rogers' stage performance is a blend of far reaching sophisticated humor, and impeccable, sometimes astounding, guitar playing and singing. His monologues are the most unusual part of his act, serving up large doses of improbable storytelling, couched in language that combines the best efforts of Noah Webster and a 'Good Old Boy.'

Rogers first came to national prominence as an original member of the "Serendipity Singers," appearing on such television shows as "The Tonight Show," "Hootenanny," and "The Ed Sullivan Show."

More recently he has been a guest commentator on NPR's "All Things Considered" radio program. Rogers love for folk music and stories goes back to his boyhood summer visits to Nacoochie Valley, Ga.

His last visit to the Woodstock Opera House was in 1985 when he recorded his latest live album for Flying Fish Records. Copies of this album will be available for purchase at this concert.

Also appearing will be Pat Donohue, winner of the 1983 National Finger-picking Championships at the Walnut Valley Festival in Winfield, Kan.

Six Flags Great America announces that construction is underway on the world's tallest, fastest and most thrilling

The show will be on stage at CLC Theater Building 5 in Grayslake.

In the cast are Mark Kettner, Bryan W. Simon, Laura Schaps, Constance Spenko, Mary Ellen Durkin, Richard V. French and Carter Martin.

Reserve campgrounds

The Illinois Dept. of Conservation will begin accepting campground reservations at 14 state park and recreation areas on Jan. 2. Campers planning outings at any of these sites between May 1 and Oct. 31 are encouraged to make advance reservations.

"Persons planning May camping trips, or who plan to camp during any one of the three major summer holidays, should consider making advance reservations to ensure a place to camp," said Ron Hallberg, head of division of land management for the Department of Conservation. "Our major campgrounds tend to fill up quickly in May and on major holiday weekends."

Hallberg pointed out that a non-refundable $3 registration fee is charged for making campground reservations. Campers still must pay the regular camping fee upon arrival at the site. Camping fees vary, ranging from $9 per night for Class A campsites (shower facilities and electrical hook-ups), $8 for Class B (electrical service only), and $4 for Class C (vehicular access only) sites.

Mary Lacey of Mundelein ably arranges group and individual exhibitions for the guild at the First National Bank of Antioch, Deerfield Bank at River Rd., Freemont Twp. Library at Mundelein, Waukegan Library at Wauconda and Cook Memorial Library at Libertyville.

Among individual shows, the works of Jeanette White of McHenry can currently be viewed at the First National Bank in Antioch during December.

Ginny Woltzen of Lindenhurst has a one-woman show at Mundelein Freemont Library as well as being represented at Studio Fifteen, 15 E. Campbell St., Arlington Heights.

Pat Wylie of Lake Forest, having recently demonstrated Sumi-e painting for the guild, shares her special talents with others through volunteer work. She teaches a watercolor class of seniors at Gorton Center, and gives a great deal of pleasure to the veterans at Downey Medical Center with her portraits of individual patients.

Her lovely paintings of many downtown Lake Forest scenes are currently being displayed at Cook Memorial Library in Libertyville.

Mike Gross of Antioch, who recently exhibited at the Cook Library continues working on commissioned portraits while Sondra Fratkin and Carol Sackschewsky are painting commissioned landscapes. Sackschewsky, president of the guild, has assumed an added responsibility as art instructor at school.

Slate tours at Volo Bog

Starting Saturday, Jan. 2, Volo Bog State Natural Area will be offering guided tours of the bog. Some of the winter attractions include leatherleaf, winterberry holly and the now bare tamarack trees all laced in a winter white.

Winter provides an ideal opportunity to get a sneak-peek into the private lives of some of the resident mammals of Volo Bog through the decoding of their tracks and other signs.

On an occasional harsh winter, white-winged crossbills are sighted as their winter range extends southward into Illinois.

Some ancient history is also brought forth during this quiet time of year. For example, it is interesting to note the significance of seeds in the history of bogs and men. It has something to do with life, death and an ancient goddess. Learn the full story and much more on a guided tour this winter.

Weekend guided tours are on Saturdays and Sundays at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Volo Bog State Natural Area, 28478 W. Brandenburg Rd., Ingleside.

Critic's Choice In... Lakeland

'La Cage' should be award winner

by GLORIA DAVIS

There are those who will attend Candelight Dinner Theatre's production of "La Cage Aux Folles" that will be like my guest at the premier, slightly turned off by the opening chorus number featuring some female impersonators in all their gawdy glory.

But I guarantee that that turnoff, if it is one to the average theater goer, will be short lived as Candelight's most talented cast launches into a musical story about values, love, accepting people for what they are and awarding human dignity where it is deserved.

James Harms, long a prominent figure on the Chicago area theater scene, plays Albin and Joel Craig plays Georges, the owners of the La Cage Aux Folles Nightclub on the French Riviera.

Both are perfectly cast and take turns stealing one scene after another with Harms getting an emotional edge.

Another scene stealer, and most familiar face at Candelight, Dale Benson does a great job as the Minister of Morality.

Gordon McClure's "swishy" butler, who wishes to be a maid, is hysterical and Ami Sylvestri as the street wise owner of a French cafe are stellar additions to the cast.

The Les Cagelles, the nightclub's chorus line made up of both male and female singers and dancers (sometimes its hard to tell which is which) do a great job in both departments.

John Ruess and Jill Walmsley are the perfect young lovers doing a stand-out job in the "With Ann On My Arm" number.

Other outstanding numbers include Harms' "I Am What I Am," Craig's "Look Over There," and "The Best of Times," done by Harms, Sylvestri and the chorus. I bet you walk out of the theater humming this one!

Atlantic Records has recently released "Say You Will," the first single from Foreigner's forthcoming studio album, Inside Information. "Say You Will" was written by Mick Jones and Lou Gramm and produced by Mick Jones with co-producer Frank Filipetti. The flip side of the single is "A Night To Remember," another Jones/Gramm composition. Foreigner is: Mick Jones on lead guitar, keyboards and background vocals; Lou Gramm on lead vocals; Dennis Elliot on drums and Rick Wills on bass and background vocals.

Chris Frantz and Tina Weymouth of The Talking Heads and The Tom Tom Club are currently producing the upcoming album by Ziggy Marley (who's the son of the legendary Bob Marley) and the Melody Makers in a New York studio. The 19-year-old Marley has carved out a reputation during the last few years as a remarkable stage performer as well as a powerful songwriter. Ziggy's group, The Melody Makers, consists of his brother Stephen and sisters Sharon and Cedella. The new album will be released by Virgin Records in early Spring 1988.

For those who wondered whether Wham!'s instant fame among the teeny-bop set would translate into a successful solo career for George Michael, wonder no more. His new LP Faith has done something almost unheard of for a debut solo LP. It entered the British charts at number one. The high entry is doubly extraordinary considering that Faith contains numerous stylistic departures from George Michael's previous work with Wham! It includes one jazzy, 40's-ish tune, hints of 50's rock and roll, and political lyrics which British newspapers have interpreted as outright attacks on Margaret Thatcher and her policies. Says Michael, "I'm a bit like a fish who has to keep moving to keep breathing. I have to keep doing new things musically."

Wedding Expo '88 set for Sunday, Jan. 17

by GLORIA DAVIS

"Wedding Expo '88," will be presented at the Holiday Inn in Mundelein, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., on Sunday, Jan. 17.

Again this year, the wedding exposition is being sponsored by Debbie's Floral of Mundelein, the Dancing Machine and Lakeland Newspapers.

The bridal fashion show, with wedding styles by Claudine's of Libertyville Bridal and tuxedos by Henri's Formalwear of Waukegan, will start at 1:30 p.m. with models from the respective stores.

To date there has been no other publicity on a January bridal show being held elsewhere in Lake County, so this may be the area's prospective brides and grooms big chance to get help in planning their wedding.

Fashions for the bride, her attendants, the mother of the bride and groom etc., will be coordinated by Claudine and her daughter Elaine.

Henri's will be featuring the newest in male formalwear, including the Bill Blass, Dynasty and Desmond collections.

Other businesses that can help in planning a wedding will be there to answer any of the engaged couples' questions. To date that list includes the Mundelein Cleaners and the Executive Cleaners, Gurnee, specialists in preserving wedding gowns and also in refurbishing "Mothers' gown."

K and E Video, Grayslake, Don Cass Photography, Grayslake, Gingiss Formalwear, Waukegan, and the Dancing Machine are just some of the businesses that will have displays.

Preschoolers sky show

Children who want to know what goes on outside while they're asleep can see for themselves at the Adler Planetarium Children's Sky Show "Enchanted Sky", Saturday mornings at 10 a.m. Jan. 2. through March 26.

"Enchanted Sky" is a half-hour look at what happens to the sky at night," according to Planetarium assistant astronomer, April Whitte, author of the show. "A lot of people are surprised to find out that the sky actually changes as the night progresses."

Children's Sky Shows are written for children under six years old and are presented in the Planetarium's domed Sky Theater.

"In order to see the stars more clearly than we can from downtown Chicago, we transport ourselves to a farmhouse out in the country. To start with, the Man-in-the-Moon explains how the sun, moon and stars rise and set," says Whitt.

Kids, and grown-ups too, for that matter, also learn how to find and track Venus, the brightest object in the winter sky. "One of the nice things about this show," comments Whitt, "is that it is presented live, so each time we take the audience to Venus it's a little different. It really allows the kids to use their imaginations and the operator can take cues from the audience on how much detail to go into on a particular subject."

The special magic of the Sky Theater is that the audience can see things which are very difficult to see from Chicago or the surrounding area. City residents rarely have the chance to see the Milky Way but it is clear and bright in the "enchanted sky"

Meteors and satellites are normally hard to see because of their speed but the Sky Show demonstrates exactly what to look for.

In addition to the Sky Show for children, courses ranging from "Superstars" and "Ring Around A Planet" to "Crater Quiz" and "Night Sky Zoo" are offered for kids three to 12 in February.

The Adler Planetarium is located at 1300 South Lake Shore Dr. Admission for Children's Sky shows is $1.50 per person and parents are encouraged to attend with their children. Advance registration is required for all classes. For further information, call (312)322-0300.

THE DIFFICULT PEOPLE IN YOUR LIFE: COPING AND WINNING

At any one time, most of us are aware of at least one other person who is creating stress in our lives. In response we may withdraw, become irrational, or engage in other self-defeating behavior. In spite of our sincere efforts to cope, we remain locked in a "no win" situation. In this workshop we will: complete an inventory to provide a better understanding of ourselves and others, identify the traits which tend to frustrate us, obtain information which will help us to cope more effectively with difficult people, develop action plans for positive changes.

A DIVISION OF MANPOWER TEMPORARY SERVICES

THIS WEEK'S

HOROSCOPE

BY SALOME

Weekly Tip: Good will toward man.

Aries (Mar. 21-Apr 19) Visit all your beloved friends now since you are consumed with holiday cheer. Things will be harmonious both at home and at the office for quite a while.

Taurus (Apr. 20-May 20) The bustling crowds make you feel a little bit uncomfortable, but now you should get out there and enjoy that uplifting feeling of camaraderie.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) There are many new and inspiring conditions materializing around you; make use of them and make your life more interesting and full of good cheer.

Cancer (June 21-Jul 20) Even though the chances are slim that this will happen, make sure you handle any unusual circumstances efficiently and with a good-humored nature.

Leo (Jul 21-Aug. 22) Let the holiday spirit sweep you away to all your social engagements with a smile on your face.
But keep that smile there for when you get together with family.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your co-workers will appreciate the gifts you give them, so make them thoughtful yet inexpensive. Little annoyances will mean nothing now.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct 22) Your party invitations abound, so try to attend as many of them as possible without tiring yourself out. Be thoughtful to your loved ones as well.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You've been splurging on everyone on your Christmas list, so why not go ahead and splurge for a little special something for yourself? A great idea!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Your communication skills are sharp right now, so call your friends. If you're missing holiday cheer, find someone who has it and catch some quickly!

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Study your financial situation before you find yourself in the poorhouse after Christmas.
You can buy nicely for everyone, even on a tight budget.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Get into the spirit of the holiday and enjoy yourself. If you are obligated to attend some public function, make sure you are dressed appropriately.

Pisces (Feb. 19-Mar. 20) Doing something unusual for your mate can bring you both much happiness. Be sure that your plans for the holiday have all been worked out to a "T."

If you were born this week, you have a wealth of unusual talents, so be sure you don't do anything to stifle your creative nature. Just make sure you add the right modern flair to any endeavors you undertake, and success should be yours. Always be ready to indulge in sports.

Communication can help avert drug interaction

By BERNARD J. TURNOCK, M.D.

When it comes to taking medication, senior citizens face a variety of factors that could result in complications from drug interactions.

To begin with, those over the age of 65 experience chronic disabling conditions more frequently than younger persons do. Conditions such as arthritis, heart disease, high blood pressure, diabetes and visual impairments are common among older persons, and all may require medication.

Second, senior citizens not only visit their physicians more often, but generally see a larger variety of doctors than younger people do.

Third, many older persons are reluctant to describe all their symptoms, or list all their medications (including non-prescription medications), because they feel going so is an admission of old age. This often handicaps the physician in making an accurate diagnosis. It can also result in one physician duplicating the prescription of another because the patient hasn't told the doctors about all the medication he or she is taking.

Yet another factor is that, because most older people were taught deep respect for authority, many senior citizens will not question their physicians. For example, if the doctor says, "Take these pills four times a day," an older person is not likely to ask what the medication is, what it's for, how it will interact with other medicines or what the side effects may be.

Finally, many older persons are hampered by poor eyesight, arthritic hands, difficulty chewing or swallowing, faulty memories or other conditions that make it difficult to read instructions, open medicine containers, ingest the medicine properly, or remember schedules or advice. And senior citizens are often too proud or too embarrassed to admit these handicapping conditions.

When all these factors are added together, the result is thousands of older people taking medication eight or 10 times a day (or more) without knowing exactly what they're taking or why.

There is a simple way to help prevent these kinds of problems with drugs. Senior citizens or persons helping to care for one should sit down and make two lists, one of things to tell the doctor, the other a list of things to ask him.

Some of the things to tell him:

-What is bothering you, your symptoms; how long you have had this particular complaint; how it started.

-All the drugs you use, including prescriptions, aspirin, laxatives and vitamins. Remember, just because aspirin does not require a prescription, it is still a powerful drug.

-Any allergies, and what kinds.

-Any poor reactions you have had in the past to any drugs.

On the other list, you should ask the doctor:

-The name of the drug he prescribed.

-Why you need to take it.

-Exactly when and how often you should take it (e.g., exactly what does "at meal time" mean?)

-How long you will need to continue taking it.

-How much it will cost.

-If there's a lower-cost generic substitute.

-Whether you still need to take all the other medicines you've been taking.

-What side effects may occur from the medication.

Giving the doctor this information and asking these questions will help assure you are not getting duplicate prescriptions, taking medicine you don't need or taking drugs that interact poorly.

Many pharmacists keep detailed patient drug records which can be used to check for drug interactions, unusual doses and duplicate prescriptions. They can also speak with you and your doctor about lower cost generic products. Be sure to ask the pharmacist about the services he or she might provide to assist you with the proper use and control of medication.

Drugs do have the ability to soften the ravages of disease and disability, but in order to do their best, drugs must be used carefully and rationally. Patients, physicians and pharmacists have to work together to make sure it happens that way.

Editor's note: Dr. Bernard Turnock is the director of the Illinois Dept. of Public Health.

Club to preview new year

The Golden Passport Club will host a New Year's party on Jan. 6 at the Madison Avenue Restaurant, 34 N. Sheridan Rd., Waukegan.

The party will begin at 1 p.m., featuring a slide presentation previewing the travel packages offered by the club in 1988 and its one-day outings; games and refreshments will also be featured.

All Golden Passport members are welcome to attend and bring one guest. To become a Golden Passport Club member, one must be 55 years of age or over, and maintain a banking relationship with the First National Bank of Waukegan.

Restitution law in effect Jan. 1

Legislation entitling senior citizens to restitution from persons who injure them or take their property will go into effect on Jan. 1.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), is designed to discourage crimes against elderly persons and force criminals who prey upon them to pay medical bills and property losses. The bill, HB 2740, permits seizure and sale of a criminal's property if restitution is not made.

"Senior citizens are favorite targets of purse snatchers, robbers and other criminals, and these people must have protection," Geo-Karis said. "Often they do not have the means to pay for treatment when they are injured by attackers or to replace property that is stolen or vandalized."

Also going into effect

Jan. 1 are two bills she sponsored to help victims of sex crimes. HB 2577 requires sex offenders to pay for medical, psychiatric and rehabilitative treatment their victims requires as a result of crimes. SB 1373 permits admission of expert testimony about crime victims' post-traumatic stress syndrome in prosecutions for sex offenses.

For Civil War buffs

Civil war enthusiasts of all ages are invited to the Little Fort Civil War Round Table meeting at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 5. Harry Whitmarsh will present "The Typical Confederate Soldier" and David Dalgaard will present "The Typical Union Soldier." Round Table meetings are held at the Bowen Park Lilac Cottage Senior Center, 1917 N. Sheridan Rd., Waukegan, and are free of charge. Refreshments will be served. For more information, contact T.S. Holmes, (312)623-1915, or the Senior Center, (312)249-710.

Consumers focus heavily on fashionable eyewear

With the growing popularity of eyeglasses and sunglasses, fashion experts around the country are cautioning style-conscious wearers to beware of sacrificing good fit in the name of "good looks" when selecting eyewear.

"TV and movie stars have made the wearing of eyeglasses stylish," says Cathy Kaye, fashion eyewear buyer for Sterling Optical, which has more than 225 stores in 26 states. "Many people now want certain styles of frames regardless of whether the frames are 'right' for them."

Kaye said that consumers who select frames to emulate a celebrity's may detract from, rather than improve, their own appearance.

Observes Brenda York, president of the McLean, Va.-based Academy of Fashion and Image

Consultants, "A woman with a small, round face, for example, who wears large, round frames is doing her appearance a disservice, no matter which star wears that particular frame."

"If the look isn't really right for the customer, our opticians will tactfully try to encourage consideration of a more flattering style," said Kaye.

What are today's most popular frames?

Kaye says that quality designer eyewear in higher price categories is selling best.

"Aviator-shaped frames for men remain a top seller, as do thinner versions of the preppy, schoolboy look for both men and women."

"Smaller, narrower frames—which are popular in Europe—haven't really caught on in America. Here, people want larger frame styles."

Durability of frames is also becoming important to today's consumers, with carbon, stainless steel and even titanium appearing in more styles and colors.

"Overall," said Kaye, "the most exciting part of the new trend is that eyeglasses, which a few years ago some people thought would become passe, are definitely coming back full strength. Today, it's 'in' to wear glasses."

Looking forward to a future with you in 1988

STRICTLY for SENIORS

Let these merchants and services help you to make the most of your Golden Years.

Eye care center provides needed services locally

Christmas will be brighter this year for Elizabeth David and for Barry L. Seiller, M.D. "It is a very special gift to me knowing that Mrs. David is enjoying better vision this Christmas," says Dr. Seiller.

Elizabeth David, who is originally from Hungary and now resides in Spring Grove, has been having visual problems for many years. She was told by a number of doctors that she needed extensive eye treatments which only the University of Illinois-Chicago eye clinic could provide for her.

After sharing her concerns about her eyes to a real estate agent who was selling her home, he told her about a local ophthalmologist who was providing wonderful eye care to his son. On this man's advice, she went to see Dr. Seiller, director of the Eye Care Center of Lake County, where she was told that he could provide all the necessary eye care services to her in his Fox Lake office.

After three months of treatment, Mrs. David is again sewing dresses for herself and crocheting doilies for the house. "I can now watch television with my husband, Louis, and read the many letters, books and newspapers that I still receive from Hungary," she said. "Dr. Seiller is a wonderful doctor. He really cares about his patients."

The Eye Care Center of Lake County, under the direction of Dr. Barry L. Seiller, M.D., has offices in Waukegan and on Grand Ave. in Fox Lake. According to Dr. Seiller, "We pride ourselves on our ability to provide complete eye care services to northern Illinois residents so that no one has to travel great distances to eye care centers in Chicago or Milwaukee."

Be kind to feet

Refresh aching feet after a day's shopping or sightseeing by soaking in cool water and elevating them for 10 or 15 minutes.

Calcium not just a female concern

"It's not just a woman's problem. Everyone--men and women--needs a gram of calcium a day. For almost everybody, except those with certain medical conditions such as kidney problems, that amount of calcium, either from food or supplements, does no harm and can help prevent osteoporosis."

That's the advice of bone researcher Carol Gay, who has a bottle of calcium supplement tablets on her office desk to remind her to take her daily dose.

A specialist in the study of calcium, Dr. Gay is a senior research associate in Penn State's Dept. of Molecular and Cell Biology and principal investigator on a Public Health Service-supported bone study.

"While it's true," she says, "that post-menopausal women are most susceptible to osteoporosis, and nearly one in four women past the age of 65 have had fractures attributable to the disease, men are at risk too."

"All people, as they age, lose the ability to absorb calcium as they did when they were younger. The most common result of osteoporosis in older men is hip fractures."

A research scientist, not a physician, Dr. Gay knows of the need for calcium thanks to her daily effort to understand the natural process by which bones are built up and broken down in the body. She explains that bones are 99 percent mineral in a structured protein matrix. The remaining one percent is composed of three types of cells: osteoclast, osteoblasts and osteocytes.

In a normal adult, the osteoclasts "chew out" bone and the osteoblasts refill the holes. The osteocytes nourish the bone thus formed.

"This is a normal process," Dr. Gay emphasizes, "but if it gets out of balance, you usually get a net loss over a long period, and it turns into bone thinning, or osteoporosis."

Currently, no one knows the exact mechanism by which the osteoclasts, the cells that tear bone down, do their job, but Dr. Gay found some clues. She and her co-workers discovered three enzymes in the osteoclasts that they think may be directly involved in the process.

"When we fully understand the process, we may be able to manipulate the enzymes by drug intervention to slow down the restoration process," she related.

In the meantime, Dr. Gay recommends the following measures for healthy persons of all ages, which are endorsed by the American Society for Bone and Mineral Research:

1. Get plenty of exercise
2. Eat calcium-rich foods every day.
3. Avoid large amounts of vitamin A and D unless prescribed by a physician.
4. Avoid cigarette smoking.
5. Help the frail and elderly to prevent falls.
6. If pertinent, discuss possible estrogen replacement therapy with a physician.

If, like Dr. Gay, one finds it impossible to get enough calcium from foods eaten, try a calcium supplement. Dr. Gay says, "There are lots of products on the market. Get the cheapest one you can find. I do."

Chrysler settlement will benefit many consumers

Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan announced that nearly 2,000 Illinois citizens will receive benefits of at least $500 each under a settlement with Chrysler Motors Corp. for alleged violations of the federal odometer tampering law.

Chrysler and two of its executives entered a nolo contendere plea on Dec. 14 in response to June, 1987 federal indictments for alleged violation of the federal odometer tampering law. As a related case, the settlement agreement between Chrysler and attorneys general from states throughout the country was announced, and a federal judge ordered the consolidation of the cases and finalization of the settlement agreement within two months.

"This settlement is a major victory for consumers," Hartigan said. "The benefits will extend to all consumers who purchased cars on which Chrysler had disconnected odometers prior to sale, without telling consumers that this had been done or that in some cases the cars had been driven hundreds of miles with odometers disconnected."

When the settlement is finalized, Hartigan's office will be notified of all eligible Illinois consumers. His office will then send these consumers necessary forms to apply for benefits.

The disconnecting of the odometers was part of Chrysler's Overnight Evaluation Program, in which Chrysler systematically disconnected the odometers of thousands of newly manufactured cars and loaned them to its factory executives for overnight "test drives" or other personal use.

Under the terms of the settlement, Chrysler will pay a minimum of $500 to the current owner of every vehicle in the United States which can be identified as having been in the odometer-disconnection program. Upon final court approval, Chrysler will contribute an initial amount of $16,375,000 to a fund for restitution to consumers.

This initial payment represents $500 for each of the 32,750 Chrysler, Dodge, and Plymouth vehicles issued in 1985, 1986 and 1987 and presently traced to the odometer-disconnection program. As any additional vehicles are identified, Chrysler will be required to increase the restitution fund to guarantee a $500 payment to each car's owner.

Chrysler previously agreed to give each eligible consumer an extended seven year/75,000 mile warranty valued at $300. These warranties total approximately $9.8 million in additional benefits nationwide.

CLC sets homecoming for student leaders

The College of Lake County Student Senate is sponsoring a Student Leader Homecoming on Saturday, Jan. 9. The event will be a dinner/dance for all former and current CLC students and faculty advisors who were involved in the student newspaper (The Chronicle), radio station (WXLC) and Student Senate while at the college.

Heather Carlson, vice-president of the Student Senate, said that about 1,200 invitations have been mailed to alumni who were tracked down through old addresses on file.

"We've always felt we could get people to come back, reunite them with their friends and the school, and maybe get them involved again in some way," Carlson said. She added that the homecoming would also allow them to showcase the new Activities Office, located in the recently-completed C-wing.

The evening will begin at 6 p.m. with an open house at the Activities Office and tours of the school. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. in C001-2, followed by dancing until midnight.

Carlson said there will be lots of old pictures, Chronicles, and other memorabilia on display, along with a booklet featuring "Where are they now?" stories.

The cost of the dinner is $10, and an RSVP is required. For more information about the Student Leader Homecoming, call (312) 223-6601 ext. 289.

This initial payment represents $500 for each of the 32,750 Chrysler, Dodge, and Plymouth vehicles issued in 1985, 1986 and 1987 and presently traced to the odometer-disconnection program. As any additional vehicles are identified, Chrysler will be required to increase the restitution fund to guarantee a $500 payment to each car's owner.

Chrysler previously agreed to give each eligible consumer an extended seven year/75,000 mile warranty valued at $300. These warranties total approximately $9.8 million in additional benefits nationwide.

CLC sets homecoming for student leaders

The College of Lake County Student Senate is sponsoring a Student Leader Homecoming on Saturday, Jan. 9. The event will be a dinner/dance for all former and current CLC students and faculty advisors who were involved in the student newspaper (The Chronicle), radio station (WXLC) and Student Senate while at the college.

Heather Carlson, vice-president of the Student Senate, said that about 1,200 invitations have been mailed to alumni who were tracked down through old addresses on file.

"We've always felt we could get people to come back, reunite them with their friends and the school, and maybe get them involved again in some way," Carlson said. She added that the homecoming would also allow them to showcase the new Activities Office, located in the recently completed C-wing.

The evening will begin at 6 p.m. with an open house at the Activities Office and tours of the school. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. in C001-2, followed by dancing until midnight.

Carlson said there will be lots of old pictures, Chronicles, and other memorabilia on display, along with a booklet featuring "Where are they now?" stories.

The cost of the dinner is $10, and an RSVP is required. For more information about the Student Leader Homecoming, call (312) 223-6601 ext. 289.

Sarah Mikrut of Lake Zurich, for her third consecutive meet, took first place in the all-around medal with an impressive 34.10 total points. Mikrut also took individual honors of first on the floor and beam (with scores of 8.75 and 8.55), second on bars (8.3) and fifth on vault (8.5).

Teammate Bea Selz of Gurnee finished a close second with 33.70 total points. She had individual honors of first on the bars (8.65), third on the vault (8.7) and second on both the floor (8.55) and beam (7.8). With a total all-around score of 32.35, Alison Galatte of Long placed third. Galatte was first on the floor exercise (8.75), second on bars (8.3), fifth on the beam (6.9) and sixth on the vault (8.5).

Erin Konen of Hawthorn Woods completed the team sweep by capturing a fourth place on the all-around with 31.5 total points. Konen placed second on the vault (8.8), fourth on the floor exercise (7.9) and beam (7.24).

Class I teammate Jenny Beall of Mundelein received a sixth place finish in the all-around with a 28.6. Beall also received a sixth place finish on the floor exercise (7.85) and had an 8.8 score on the vault to give her first place in this individual event.

Iwema update

Former Warren Twp. High School football player Kent Iwema completed his playing career at Northern Illinois University by earning his fourth letter. Iwema, a fullback and tailback for the Huskies, had three touchdowns for 18 points at NIU. Iwema carried the ball 62 times for 317 yards, an average of just over five yards a carry. He also caught two passes for 62 yards. NIU was 5-5-1 this fall.

College of Lake County's women's basketball team is taking a break for the holidays before Skyway Conference action starts Jan. 5. CLC will host McHenry County College in the first league game.

The Lancers last lost at Harper 79-38. Wendy Christian scored 21 points for CLC.

Sting trip

The College of Lake County's Student Activities office is sponsoring a trip to watch the Chicago Sting at the Rosemont Horizon on Jan. 30. Tickets for the game are $6 for students, staff and faculty and $10 for guests and non-students.

Earns honors

Dubuque University basketball player Dawn Laubach was named to the all-tournament team at the Cornell Tournament. Laubach, a Wauconda resident, is a 6-4 senior. Laubach had 15 points and 19 rebounds in Dubuque's 55-50 win over Cornell. She then had 21 points and 11 rebounds in Dubuque's loss to Mt. Mercy in the finals, 74-62. Laubach is averaging 16.2 points and a team-high 10.7 rebounds a game in the early going.

Round Lake holds off Grayslake charge, stays perfect in Northwest Suburban

Thanks to Mother Nature, Round Lake will have to wait a couple of weeks for its first-place showdown with Marengo, but that should give the Panthers plenty of time to prepare for the challenge.

Friday the Panthers edged Grayslake 48-42 in an emotional struggle for both teams. Composure down the stretch, coupled with clutch rebounding, proved to be the ticket for the Panthers, now 3-0 in the Northwest Suburban Conference.

"They kept coming back and coming back," Round Lake coach Bob Ward said of the host Rams. "We limited their second and third shots."

Brian Richardson had 16 points to lead the Panthers while Tim Dunn added 12, including three three-point field goals.

Grayslake coach Greg Groth had good reason to be optimistic before the Round Lake game. The Rams were 2-0 in NWSC play, tied for first with Round Lake and Marengo. A home victory would give the Rams momentum for the Rich South Christmas tournament and the 1988 portion of the season.

"I feel we were prepared. We beat ourselves," Groth said afterwards.

Tim West scored half of Grayslake's points - 21. While that may be an outstanding performance, that is also part of Grayslake's problem. "We have to get someone else to score," Groth said.

The biggest problem for Grayslake was the shots that did not drop. The Rams finished shooting 18 of 47 from the field, 38 percent. In the first half, Grayslake was seven for 25, 28 percent.

"We had the shots but they would just not go down," Groth said.

Still, the Rams were very much alive when a West layup closed the Round Lake lead to 40-38 with 1:44 left in the game.

The Panthers then converted five of six free-throws, four by Dunn, for a 45-40 lead with :42 seconds remaining.

Pete Lupori put home an offensive rebound to trim the gap to 46-42, but Frank Russell secured the victory with two free throws with seven seconds remaining.

Round Lake opened the contest with three-point play attempts, but missed its first five. Grayslake did not have any trouble with Round Lake's vaunted trapping defense, but the two teams could only manage just 11 first-quarter points.

A three-pointer by Grayslake earned an 8-8 tie early in the second quarter. But the Rams were held to just two field goals - both by West - over the next four minutes.

Round Lake, meanwhile, overcame its own mistakes to build an eight-point lead on two three-pointers by Dunn.

Grayslake countered with two hoops, one by Mark Bussone and another by LuPori, to trim the gap to 20-16 at halftime.

In the third stanza, Grayslake came to within one at 27-26 but the Panthers then ripped off seven straight points over a two-minute span for a 34-26 lead. A three-point play by West using the conventional method (a field goal and free throw) made it 34-29 Round Lake after three.

Ward noted the play of forward Jeff Shook, saying the senior, did a lot of things not in the box score.

Grayslake, now 4-3 overall, will play

Carl Sandburg Dec. 26 at 7 p.m.

Round Lake is at Hampshire's Holiday Classic this week.

CLC prepares for rematch with DuPage

College of Lake County's men's basketball team let a 10-point halftime lead slip away against ranked DuPage last week, but there is one thing the Lancers can look forward to.

A quick rematch.

The Lancers and DuPage will begin the 1988 portions of their season with a battle Jan. 2. DuPage spoiled CLC's bid for an upset with a 61-60 win at Highland College's Christmas tournament in Freeport Friday.

The Lancers, now 7-5, bounced back from the loss with a 80-76 win over Sauk Valley but lost to Wright, 85-68.

CLC led 37-27 at halftime against DuPage. But DuPage kept coming back in the second half. CLC led by five with less than two minutes left but quickly saw the margin vanish.

"They had two three-point plays within 15 seconds of each other," Smith said.

Don Gunther, an Antioch product, led CLC with 18 points. Bob Bell had 13 and Joel Elfering had 11.

The Sauk Valley contest was a see-saw affair. CLC led 41-40 at halftime.

Mike Scribner stole the ball and a free throw by Matt Weber with less than 10 seconds left were key plays in the win.

Grant holds off Marian, receives tough test at DeKalb

This was not the way Grant basketball coach Tom Maple wanted to go into the DeKalb tournament, but Friday's 68-66 win at Marian Central proved one point.

These Bulldogs are survivors.

But Maple is expecting more from his forces now that the season is a month old.

"After seven games, (and a 4-3 record), experience is something we are not going to talk about anymore," Maple said.

Maple said he was "fairly pleased" with his team's record, which improved to 2-1 in the Northwest Suburban Conference with the win at Marian Central.

The Bulldogs used a 22-13 lead after eight minutes and hung on from there against an undermanned Hurricanes team. "Give them credit, they made it close," Maple said.

Tony Cullota led the way for Grant with 24 points and eight rebounds. Maple also had praise for Ken Rasbid, who had 11 points and John Wilhelm had 12.

Marian Central got back into the contest with a 23-14 edge in the second quarter. Grant led 56-453 after three. The Hurricanes tied the game with about a minute left, but Grant held its composure.

Forward Rich Krause scored 19 points and Matt Hopp added 15. Marian, now 0-6, also benefited from three three-point baskets.

Elsewhere in the NWSC:

Marengo 58, Wauconda 40:

Wauconda and new coach Charles Walsh can take some consolation from the 18-point loss to the co-NWSC leaders. The two teams will clash again Saturday to open Marengo's Christmas tournament.

Chuck Cermak scored 22 points and five three-pointers for Wauconda, but the next highest scorer had eight.

Marengo led 18-8 after one. Wauconda played a better second quarter, losing the stanza 11-10. Marengo came out at halftime and won the third quarter 20-13.

Trent Pace scored 20 points for the Indians, now 3-0 in the NWSC and 6-1 overall.

Hit or miss?

Warren and Mundelein players await verdict as shot is launched. Carmel led early, but Warren recovered via strong second half to win 70-56. Carmel hosts own tournament beginning Dec. 28 while Warren is at Dundee-Crown beginning Dec. 26.

Sequoits hope for fresh start

Antioch's basketball team has a few items it would like to include on its 1987 Christmas Wish list.

Number one: more rebounding. Number two: less turnovers.

If the Sequoits could come up with both of those factors next week at the Rockford Christmas tournament, then coach Don Zeman would feel a lot better about his team's chances in 1988.

"We certainly want to get ourselves back on the upswing. We have to make improvements in rebounding and turnovers," Zeman said.

The Sequoits, who open tourney play Monday against Rockford Guilford at the MetroCentre, slumped to 2-2 in the North Suburban Conference and 2-5 overall with a 78-38 shellacking at the hands of Lake Forest.

Antioch committed 35 turnovers and was outrebounded by a two-to-one margin, 41-22 in the loss. Of Lake Forest's 17 offensive rebounds, eight were put home for baskets.

"They had size on us, but there is no way they should outrebound us by that much," Zeman said.

Scott Gooch was the leading scorer for Antioch with nine points. The hosts shot just 12 for 39, 30 percent. Lake Forest shot the ball 68 times making 32, 47 percent.

Rob Pelinka had 27 points for Lake Forest. Doug Cayce added 16.

Lake Forest zoomed to a 20-6 lead after eight minutes and led 42-23 at halftime.

Stevenson, Warren post impressive wins

When basketball practice started at Stevenson High School last month, the gymnasium was not the only thing new.

Coach George Katich had to introduce himself to several players new to the varsity level. How quickly those players developed would go a long way in determining the Patriots' pre-Christmas success.

"I'm more than pleased. We started out with an inexperienced team without any stars. It's been a total team effort," Katich said.

A 73-56 clubbing of Mundelein on the road gave the Patriots a 4-3 overall record, 3-1 in the North Suburban Conference race. Stevenson's only NSC loss came at the hands of 4-0 Warren.

Stevenson is at Wheeling this week in Christmas tournament action, but got to host a first-round game.

Craig Holder was simply devastating in leading Stevenson to the win over the Mustangs. Holder had 38 points for the game, 15 in the first quarter and 24 at half-time.

"He had a lot of offensive rebound baskets and drove the ball real well," Katich said.

But even though Holder had an outstanding individual effort, that did not mean other Patriots did not give important contributions. Jim Neary added 14 points and ran the offense well from his point guard slot. Rob Anderson scored six points, but was a major force in the middle.

"Anderson did an unbelievable job on the boards," Katich said.

And defensively, the Patriots held the Mustangs, who had been overcoming height disadvantage with three-point shots, to just one field goal from beyond the stripe.

Stevenson led 23-14 after eight minutes. Mundelein did trim the gap down to 29-24 with 3:30 left, but the Patriots still led 37-27 at halftime.

The two teams played on nearly even terms to start the third quarter, won by Stevenson 20-19.

The Mustangs made a run at Stevenson in the fourth quarter, but could only get as close as 10 points.

Elsewhere, Warren kept its first-place tie with Zion-Benton with a 64-46 romping of Niles North.

Matt Lingenfelter and Derek Shelton had 16 points each for Warren, now 6-1 overall. The Blue Devils shot nearly 70 percent from the field in the first half, en route to a 36-16 halftime bulge before the host Vikings knew what had hit them.

Junior high final four all set

The final four is all set for the second annual Mid-Season Lake County Basketball championships.

St. Anastasia of Waukegan will square off with St. Patrick's of Wadsworth at 9:30 a.m. at Round Lake Senior High School in one semifinal game.

Mundelein's Santa Maria will meet St. Johns of Johnsbury in the second semi-final game.

New Orleans offers fun, food and history galore

by JIM WARNKEN

President, North Star Travel

A winter vacation to most of us conjures up images of warm sunny beaches in Florida or maybe the Bahamas. There are those who are looking for summer like temperatures, but something more than a nice tan. New Orleans may be just the ticket.

Winter temperatures in New Orleans range from day time highs in the 80's dropping to the upper 60's at night. The warm weather is only a bonus to all this Mississippi River town has to offer.

Probably the most famous section of New Orleans is the historic French Quarter. I found this part of the city to have two personalities.

Nighttime in the French Quarter is strictly for the party animals! Bourbon Street is where it all happens. At night the entire street becomes a pedestrian mall. No, it's more than that. It's one big all-night block party! I was recently on this street the night before the New Orleans Saints played the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Not a place for an amateur party person.

On Sunday morning the French Quarter is quiet again. This is the best time for a walk through this old French neighborhood. Start with coffee and beignet (The official Louisiana state donut) at the famous Cafe du Monde. It's located on Decatur St. between the Jax Brewery and the French Market. Then take one of the many horse drawn carriages parked along Jackson Square for a Sunday ride. Want to pickup a sweet snack for later in the day? Forget the overpriced pralines sold in the little shops. Instead buy a couple of giant (still over priced but good) pralines from the old black lady who has a card table set up next to Jax Brewery.

Final tip. Unless you plan to just see only downtown New Orleans, don't stay in the French Quarter. Hotels are expensive, traffic is heavy and parking is impossible. I stay in Metairie about half way between New Orleans and the airport. It's a good base for side trips.

Exciting Skyhawks use rallies to win two more games

On paper, there is nothing all that impressive about the Johnsbury Skyhawks basketball team.

Two 6-3 players are the tallest on the roster; there are no "twin towers" or flashy point guards. Just a collection of blue-collar players who come to get the job done.

Lake Zurich and Hinkley Big-Rock are the latest of opponents to find out about Johnsbury's resolve. The Skyhawks improved to 5-3 overall and 2-2 in the Northwest Suburban Conference with a 62-61 overtime win over Lake Zurich Friday and a come-from-behind 63-59 win over Hinkley-Big Rock at Hampshire's Holiday Classic Saturday.

"We do play exciting basketball. We come to play for 32 minutes and you have to love the way we compete," Johnsbury coach Jeff Lewiston said.

Johnsbury 62, Lake Zurich 61 (OT).

Both Johnsbury wins featured comeback efforts sprinkled with tough defense. Against Lake Zurich, the Skyhawks held two of the Bears leading scorers, Troy Hines and Troy Ong, to a combined 10 points.

The two teams battled to a near standoff in the first half - Lake Zurich led 30-28 at halftime and 49-47 after three. The Skyhawks just kept coming in the fourth quarter. Fortunately, the Bears were unable to make their free throws in the fourth quarter and overtime, missing on eight of nine tries.

Scott Krezeminski scored 22 to lead the Bears. Balanced scoring led the Johnsbury attack as the Skyhawks had four players in double figures. Trevor Hart and Scott Oeffling had 18 points, Chris Diedrich had 13 and Tom Valant had 10.

Johnsbury 63, Hinkley-Big Rock 59: At Hampshire, when Lewiston first saw the seeding for the first round game he must of had thoughts of the past. Lewiston, a second-year coach at Johnsbury, had gone up against Hinkley coach Gary Lane four times while at Waterman and the two coaches split four times.

In the beginning, it looked like Lane would have the upper hand. The Royals, behind Tony Miksa and Ron Jandt, led by as many as nine points in the first quarter. Johnsbury cut the lead to seven, 19-12, at the end of the session.

The rally continued in the second quarter when the Skyhawks turned the game around. A 10-point Hinkley lead evaporated in a span of three minutes.

When Valant sank two free throws with 2:05 left, the Skyhawks led 27-26. Johnsbury clung on to a 30-29 lead at halftime.

The two teams fought back and forth in the third quarter. A three-pointer by Oeffling put the Skyhawks ahead 42-41. But the Royals answered with a six-point spree to go ahead by five and Lewiston called a timeout.

Hinkley still led by six points with 4:14 left before The Play happened.

Oeffling, a 6-2 junior swingman who finished with 20 points, squared up evenly to the basket and launched a three-pointer. It swished, cutting the Royals lead in half. After a Hinkley turnover, Valant scored with 3:37 left to bring Johnsbury to within one.

"Oeffling really has emerged in the last three games. He is our second leading scorer and he's just doing a job," Lewiston said.

Carmel looks for better beginnings

Carmel's basketball team will be hoping for better starts when the Corsairs compete in the Kankakee Christmas tournament. The Carmel-Joliet Central game Dec. 28 will start things off at 9 a.m.

Marist gave the Corsairs a tough lesson in the importance of a good start in Chicago on Friday. Carmel trailed 18-9 after eight minutes and Marist never turned back in a 66-44 loss. The defeat gives Carmel a 4-3 overall record heading into the tournament, 2-2 in the East Suburban Catholic Conference.

"We did not come ready to play defensively. And how we play defensively triggers what we can do offensively," Carmel coach Scott Rossberg said.

ECZEMA OF YOUNG FEET

Eczema, or contact dermatitis of the feet, can take various forms, such as juvenile plantar dermatitis, peridigital dermatitis of children, and true contact eczema.

Contact eczema is almost always due to shoes and other footwear. Common causes are chromate or vegetable dyes in the leather of the uppers of shoes or sandals, and additives used in rubber, found in the soles and heels of shoes or slippers or in industrial rubber boots. Patch testing will usually point to the cause.

In children 3 to 15 years of age, peridigital dermatitis produces a dry, scaly, fissure-looking eruption of the skin on and around the toes. Juvenile plantar dermatosis, or forefoot eczema, is a dry, glazed, dermatitis that is less scaly than peridigital dermatitis.

Prompt podiatric treatment can help bring relief from foot problems at any age.

Best wishes for the Holiday Season.
